LAST OF MEN MAROONED ON LAKE RESCUED

Ten Brought to Safety Today After Long Battle with Floes.

GUARDSMEN RISK LIVES

Face Death Menace and Hardships To Reach Fishermen Cast Adrift.

By United Press.

PINEHURST, N. Y., Feb. 9 — Seven coast guardsmen and three fishermen, who had drifted on an ice floe in Lake Erie since rescue attempts were disrupted last night by a broken line, were taken from the floe today, the coast guard announced.

The men were rescued by guardsmen who had set out from shore at dawn to trudge some six miles across an ice shelf to reach the floe.

The men were seen leaving the ice first by a plane chartered by the Buffalo Evening News, which flew over Pinehurst and dropped a note containing the information to the coast guard station here.

Upon landing, the guardsmen and the men they had rescued started the long trudge back across the approximately six miles of smooth ice shell to Pinehurst. From two to three hours are necessary to make the trip back here. The three fishermen were the last of a group of 20 cast adrift Saturday morning when the ice on which they were fishing snapped away from the main body.

Rescuers Risk Lives

Guardsmen had been risking their lives in the rescue of the fishermen since first reports of the floe reached Buffalo Saturday morning.

Airplanes chartered by the guard, working with the land crew under the command of Captain S. B. Johnson, first sighted the stranded fishermen. These planes were augmented by planes chartered by the three local daily newspapers.

"You never saw such a sight in your life," John E. Remlers, rescued member of the fishing colony, said in describing first sighting of the plane at 11:30 Saturday morning.

"We jumped around, kicked up our heels, and screamed for joy. We waved burlap sacks at the plane and saw the pilot drop something overboard. It was sand-

MARION MAN FREED OF MANSLAUGHTER

P. C. English Placed Under Two-Year Deferred Sentence to Pen by Judge.

Special to The Star.

LIMA, O., Feb. 9—Patrick C. English, Marion insurance man, who was to have gone on trial today in the Allen county common pleas court here on a manslaughter charge growing out of the killing here of C. M. Folsom, aged Lima insurance man several months ago, was free today but with a two-year deferred sentence to the Ohio penitentiary hanging over his head.

Accused of failing to stop his car after he had struck and killed Folsom and also accused of having driven his automobile through a red traffic signal light at the time of the tragedy, English was indicted by the Allen county grand jury on the manslaughter charge.

He appeared late Saturday afternoon before Common Pleas Judge Emmit E. Everett and changed his plea of not guilty to guilty. The judge then imposed the deferred sentence of two years in the state penitentiary. Judge Everett ordered English to pay all the costs of the case and cautioned the Marion man to not be arrested for any law violation within the two-year probationary period or he will be required to serve the two-year sentence. English paid the costs.

Attorneys for English informed the judge they had sworn statements from three eye-witnesses that at the time of the accident English was crossing the street intersection under protection of the green light and that Folsom stepped directly into the path of the machine.

Bettman Files Protest Against Phone Figures

By International News Service.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 9—Contending that the valuation should not exceed $84,475,026, Attorney General Gilbert Bettman today filed a protest with the state utilities commission on behalf of Ohio's telephone users against the $104,282,735 tentative valuation recently placed upon properties of the Ohio Bell Telephone company for rate-making purposes.

Marion is affected only in relation to toll charges.

RESCUED FROM DRIFTING LAKE ICE

Here are the first of the 20 Lake Erie fishermen rescued from drifting ice floes off Buffalo, N. Y., when a blizzard broke up the ice pack. The rescue work was completed today when the last of the marooned men were brought to shore after many hours out on the ice-clogged waters. Inset pictures are of the tug Delaware, which went to the rescue, and Charles McCarthy, a fisherman, who, learning of the ice break, walked six miles through the blinding storm to warn other fishing parties of the danger.

GEN. BUTLER HEARING CALLED OFF BY NAVY

Marine Officer Released with Reprimand After Sending Expression of Regret.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 — There will be no court-martial for Major General Smedley D. Butler of the marine corps.

Instead, after expressing regret for his recent "indiscreet remarks" concerning Premier Mussolini of Italy, the outspoken officer drew yesterday a sharply worded reprimand from Secretary Adams which included a hope the incident would have "a salutary effect on your future conduct in matters of this character."

The action was taken evidently after consultation between Butler's legal representatives and the navy department. The general placed his regrets in a letter which pointed out that the speech responsible for his troubles, made Jan. 19, before the Contemporary club of Philadelphia, was delivered under assurname that his words would not get out of the room. Butler's concluding sentence was:

Butler Gives Apology

"I very greatly regret this incident and the fact that my indiscreet remarks have caused embarrassment to the government."

Secretary Adams wrote:

"You are informed that the navy department cannot express too clearly its disapproval of the conduct of any officer of the naval establishment in making remarks which tend to embarrass the international relations of the government. Such action on the part of an officer of your rank and length of service merits and receives the unqualified condemnation of the navy department and for their utterance, which you admit, you are hereby reprimanded.

"In view of your letter expressing regret, taken in connection with your long record of brilliant service, the navy department feels that

2 BANDITS GET $212 FROM KENTON OFFICE

"Gentlemen" Lock Manager, Stenographer in Room; Escape in Car.

Special to The Star.

KENTON, O., Feb. 9—Two "gentlemen" bandits are being sought today by Kenton police after the local branch office of the Lima Loan Co. was robbed of $212 Saturday night.

Armed, with their faces covered with silk scarfs, the two men escaped after locking the office manager, A. L. Van Schoyck, and his stenographer, Miss Virginia Thompson, in an adjoining room.

The office, located near the public square, was robbed at 6 p. m. Miss Thompson was the first to see the men when they entered. She screamed but the men told her and Van Schoyck that if they were quiet they would not be harmed. The manager said the men were courteous and did not threaten at any time.

The bandits obtained the money from a cash drawer and a cash register. They went through the safe and desk drawers but overlooked a quantity of money.

The men are believed to have escaped in a car parked in a nearby alley. Before leaving the office they unlocked the door to the room in which the manager and girl were held prisoner. Police were called immediately but were unable to unearth any clues.

BANK STOCKHOLDERS IN GALION ASSESSED

Must Pay 100 Per Cent on Shares in Defunct Financial Institution.

Special to The Star.

GALION, O., Feb. 9—Stockholders of the defunct Citizens' National bank here today were ordered by the federal comptroller of currency, J. W. Poole, to pay an assessment of 100 per cent.

The assessment is payable to the receiver, A. E. Evenson, by March 12. By paying 25 per cent of the assessment by that date and giving satisfactory security for the balance, the stockholders will be permitted to pay the balance in four installments, the last due June 12.

It is believed that the money from the assessment will be used to pay a dividend to depositors. The prospects for a dividend have been rumored here for several months. No definite statement of when it will be plad has been made public.

Prince of Wales in Barber Role at Ship Party

By The Associated Press

S. S. OROPESA, Feb. 9 — The Prince of Wales had a great time this morning playing the role of barber in shipboard festivities attendant upon crossing the equator as the Oropesa plowed southward enroute from Balboa to Talara, Peru.

King Neptune, ruler of all the oceans, had radioed: "To our royal brothers. S. S. Oropesa, will board you in first dog watch. Have all initiates ready." He duly arrived at the ship's swimming pool and presided over the ceremonies, ably aided by his queen, who carried a gorgeous bouquet of cabbages and other vegetables.

• • •

THE PRINCE OF WALES was the barber, entitled "Scrape 'em," and wearing a striped red and blue bathing suit with blue shorts and a yellow and green bathing cap. He wielded an enormous wooden razor and was assisted by his equerry, Major J. R. Aird, as the barber's mate, "Soap 'Em." He wore a monkey jacket and shorts.

Tuesday Last Day for Tax Payments Here

Tuesday will be the last day in the extra 10-day extension period granted Marion county taxpayers by County Treasurer Bert J. Shelton.

Collections in the county reached $706,480.66 when business closed Saturday, an average of $58,709 for each of the 41 days represented in the collections. Last year on the same date the collection totaled $916,782.84 for a 48-day period, an average for each day of $19,099.

DECISION OF OFFICIALS

Administration Leads in Having Trial Abandoner, Is Report.

Copyright, 1931, by United Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—Plans for court-martialing Major General Smedley D. Butler of the U. S. marine corps were abandoned on the initiative of the administration, it was learned today.

For several reasons the highest officials of the government decided it was unwise to go through with the court-martial. General Butler, on his part, finally consented to be a "good soldier" and enter the arrangement.

This sudden collapse of what promised to be one of the most spectacular military trials in American history caused a sensation in Washington and was a subject of discussion everywhere. The abandonment of the court-martial was regarded as being as unprecedented as the original decision itself.

Most important for the government's international relations, the cancelation of the trial removes the possibility of a public spectacle in which would enter the question of the accuracy of statements that Premier Mussolini of Italy ran over a child with his automobile and went on without giving aid.

It was learned today that the government, through state and commerce department attaches in Italy, made a thorough investigation of the story which Butler in his speech at Philadelphia last month had told about this incident. All of these reports came back to Washington agreeing there was no truth in the story.

BLAZE SWEEPS HORSE SHOW IN OAKLAND, CAL.

Three Men Known Dead, More Than 80 Prize Animals Destroyed.

SUSPECT INCENDIARISM

Loss To Exceed $400,000; Hostler Gives Life in Rescue Effort.

By The Associated Press.

OAKLAND, Calif., Feb. 9 At least three men burned to death and more than 80 prize horses were destroyed in a fire that swept the Oakland horse show early today. The bodies of the men were badly burned

Three persons including a woman, were missing and may have perished More than a dozen attendants remained unaccounted for but most if not all, of these were thought to have escaped and failed to report their safety

Several hostlers had been sleeping in the temporary structures housing the show but whether there was additional loss of human life could not be determined

Terrified horses kicked through their stalls snorting and bellowing in agony as the flames licked at them Some broke through and dashed outside becoming galloping masses of flame as the fire caught their hair Officers stood by and shot them to put them out of their misery

Suspect Incendiarism

Virtually all the principal prize winning mounts were believed to have been lost in the blaze Firemen said they detected signs of incendiarism, but could not definitely establish that as the cause

Grooms and firemen dashed into the blazing structures to save their favorites and some of the animals were taken out safely

One of the dead tentatively identified as Michael McCarthy, a stableman, lost his life in an attempt to save Carnation Lavendula, an animal valued by its owner, the Carnation tables at $35,000 The charred bodies of man and horse were found near the edge of the flaming ruins

Loss Exceeds $400,000

Officials of the exhibit said the loss in horses alone would exceed $400,000 They also asserted fire had been discovered in the show on the opening night and that it had been quenched promptly The first fire was said by show officials to have been of incendiary origin Firemen this morning said they had detected the smell of gasoline

HEAR FROM HOOVER

President Assures Senate Support for Compromise Drouth Fund.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb 9 President Hoover today assured Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, in a letter that he would insist upon "sympathetic" administration of the $20,000,000 drouth loan fund agreed upon by party leaders as a compromise in the relief dispute The presidential letter reached the capitol just as the compromise was to be taken up in the senate

Mr. Hoover's statement was accepted by Robinson, who announced he would go through with the compromise agreement.

Senator Robinson contends that under the compromise, money can be loaned to the drouth stricken farmers for any use they may require, including the purchase of food.

Waking Up

(Will Rogers Special)

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 9 — Preached in Claremore this Sunday morning, and the deacons brought in a collection of three thousand dollars. Chelsea in the afternoon, and Tulsa will break all records tonight. Men make a town, not location, or surrounding territory, thats why Tulsa has had such a record.

From what I hear from all over the country the towns are waking up to their Red Cross responsibilities, committees have been lax in getting their drives started, the same as the whole country has been lax in realizing the need of it.

1930 was a year of "under and over estimation," nothing was guessed right all year. Optimism was overrated, and pessimism was underrated.

City Fireman on Job Even While Enjoying Leave

THE instinctive ability of a Marion fireman to detect a fire today was credited with saving two horses, an automobile and farm machinery from destruction in a barn fire east of here on Harding highway last night

W. R. Iseleib of 287 Latourette street, fireman at the Central station notified William Wilcox that the barn on his farm at Five Points on Harding highway was on fire and helped save the animals and machinery. Iseleib and his family were driving past the farm at the time

• • •

THE blaze, thought to have originated in defective wiring, was small when Iseleib discovered it. Hay in the mow took fire rapidly and in a few moments the fire was beyond control

All livestock except two cows and a calf were saved. Iseleib rescued one of the two horses saved and helped push an automobile from the barn

The barn was not a large structure, being 25 by 40 feet Fire loss was not estimated

RAINFALL AIDS DROUTH AREAS

Hopes Revived for This Year's Crops in Southern United States.

3 INCHES IN ARKANSAS

Possible Relief Forecast in Ohio; Sunday Precipitation Helps but Little.

By The Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 9—Hope was revived today for this year's crop in the drouth ravaged sections of the South, for rain had fallen through the parched areas.

Most of it fell west of Mississippi, but in parts of Kentucky, North Carolina, tinder-dry southern Illinois and Virginia rain moistened the fields.

Arkansas, where more than a half million sufferers of the drouth are being fed by the Red Cross, received the greatest share of the Sabbath's rainfall.

More than three inches fell at Fort Smith, in western Arkansas, and in Jonesboro in the eastern section of the state at Little Rock about two inches were reported.

The rainfall belt extended generally from southeastern Illinois, down the western side of the Mississippi to southern Louisiana.

The outlook in North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and part of Iowa was most encouraging. Fields were blanketed with snow. Lower and northern Michigan were to receive their portion of the snow

STATE OPENS TRIAL OF M. S. DAUGHERTY

Former Washington C. H. Bank Head Faces 16 Indictments.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON C. H., Feb. 9—Mal S. Daugherty, former president of the closed State bank, was called to trial today on the first of 16 indictments charging him with misapplication of funds.

Attorneys expected several days would be consumed in selecting a jury. Then the state will present 23 witnesses, including officials of the bank, local business men and O. C. Gray, state superintendent of banks.

The indictment on which Daugherty was brought to trial alleges abstraction of $5,350 in bank funds, falsification of entries and misapplication of funds and credit with fraudulent intent.

Daugherty, a brother of former U. S. Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, was indicted by the Fayette county grand jury last October, but he began a long series of attacks on the legality of the indictments which did not end until last week. The original indictments were quashed and new ones returned after Daugherty contended state investigators were present during the grand jury's inquiry into the closing of the bank.

Previously the defendant was declared bankrupt by the state. A number of depositors, including local merchants and farmers, have filed suit to collect from the bank's officers and bondsmen of the state banking department.

The Ohio State bank failed May 12, 1930, with liabilities of $3,622,637.

SUSPECT PAIR LURED VICTIM TO HIS DEATH

Man and Woman Held After Slaying of Former Cleveland Councilman.

GRAFT CHARGES INVOLVED

Killed To Seal Lips from Exposing Others, Prosecutor Believes.

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 9—Two suspects, a 23-year-old blond woman and her husband, were arrested here today, as detectives struggled to solve the murder of former Councilman William E. Potter. A 38 calibre revolver was found in the suspects' house and they were taken to police headquarters for questioning.

The apartment in which Potter's body was found last night had been occupied by a blond woman, but there was no evidence that she had actually lived there or that Potter had known her. An unidentified man who gave his name as "M. J. Marcus" had rented the place.

Detectives expressed the theory that the woman and "Marcus" had plotted to lure Potter to the apartment and that specially hired professional killers were waiting there to fire the fatal shots

Fourth Trial at Hand

On the eve of his fourth trial growing out of the city land purchase grafts of two years ago, Potter was found shot to death a victim, Prosecutor Ray T. Miller said, of someone who feared his testimony.

Potter's body was discovered in an east side apartment house last night with a bullet in his head. He was to have gone on trial today for perjury in connection with his testimony in three previous land deal trials in which he was acquitted.

Prosecutor Miller declared the motive for the killing would be found in some ramification of the Coit-St. Clair road playground purchase scandal, in which the city was defrauded of $33,000 and for which another former councilman and his son were sent to the penitentiary.

Potter, who was 45, had been dead at least four days and probably met death Tuesday night, detectives believed. As they reconstructed the killing, Potter went to the death trap from the city hall, where he was last seen Tuesday talking with associates. He telephoned his wife he would not be home for dinner.

The victim met ambush as he walked into the doorway, it appeared.

Mrs. Fred C. Laub, wife of the apartment house janitor, discovered the body.

Detectives believe the killing was the work of a hired assassin. One theory of detectives was that Potter, at the end of his finances and wearied by the succession of trials, might have been considering making a frank statement on his part in the scandal and was killed when a conference with those who wanted his silence ended unsatisfactorily.

Laub, the custodian, said a man giving the name of Marcus and

PAROLE RESCINDED

Murder Results in Continued Imprisonment for Schooley.

By United Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 9—The state board of parole today rescinded the parole of Liston G. Schooley Jr., of Cleveland, who was to have been freed from Ohio penitentiary Tuesday.

The board's action resulted from the murder in Cleveland of William E. Potter, former Cleveland councilman who with Schooley and his father, Liston Sr., were involved in a Cleveland playground fraud case. The younger Schooley's application for parole was approved two weeks ago.

The parole was rescinded until June, 1931, for further consideration and investigation. Although no official statement was given, Frank Reighard, a member of the board, said: "In my personal judgment, the death of Potter furnished a very clear reason why the board should rescind the parole of Schooley Jr.

"Mr. Potter's death makes it imperative that the board permit a full investigation, and for that reason, I considered it best for young Schooley to remain in the penitentiary, at least temporarily."

PRESBYTERIANS WIN FROM WALDO 22-18

VICTORS NEARLY "IN" FOR Y-CHURCH TITLE

Prospect Wins from St. Mary by Single Point; Calvary Drops Game to Lee Street.

THE First Presbyterian basketball team practically cinched the title in the Y-Church league Saturday night by beating the Waldo Lutherans 22 to 18. A mathematical possibility still exists for the Lutherans to take the title but even this will probably be erased before this week becomes history.

One of the largest crowds of spectators ever to jam its way into the limited confines of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium watched the triple program of games Saturday night. The estimated attendance at the games is 500. The final scores of the other two contests were Prospect 18, St. Mary 17 and Lee Street 25, Calvary 22.

The defeated Waldo outfit gave the Presbyterians a desperate battle before succumbing to the more effective passwork of the probable champions. The winners maintained a fairly comfortable advantage during most of the game but the ultimate outcome was in doubt until the final minutes of play when the Presbies dropped through a pair of buckets to take a six point margin.

Presbies Take Lead

The Presbyterians opened the first period with a scoring drive that put them ahead by an 8-2 margin at the end of the first frame but the Waldo outfit cut the advantage to 14-8 by half time.

A barrage of long shots and an improved passing game on the part of Waldo in the final frame caused the white clad team several anxious moments. Walter Sage, one of the mainstays of the Presbyterian attack was sent to the showers in the fourth period with a quartet of personal fouls charged against him.

Stalled To Win

The Presbyterians resorted to stalling in the last two minutes of play to break up the Waldo rally that was fast cutting down the margin separating the teams.

Prospect and St. Mary put on a close though not particularly well played game to open the triple program. Prospect held an 11-9 advantage at half time. Only two points were scored in the third period, the Irish sinking a single field goal to deadlock the count

Irish Lose Seventh

St. Mary apparently had the game in the bag late in the last period as a result of a two-pointer dropped through from mid-court but Prospect connected with another field goal just before the playing time was completed to win the game.

Lee Street handed the dope bucket somewhat of a boot when it took the measure of the lowly Calvary crew by a 25 to 22 count. Both teams have been consistent losers all season but the Calvary outfit was doped to be the winner Saturday night. Calvary led 15-11 at the end of the third period but Lee street rallied late in the game to take the decision.

LAZARUS LEADS

Pins To Fly When Actual Competition Starts in Tourney.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 9—Maple pins will fly high and wide beginning Friday night when eight competition teams take to the alleys in the Ohio State Bowling Association tournament.

Quintets rolling so far have been for the most part Columbus booster teams of which Lazarus Hyde park took the lead last night with a score of 2663. Blumer-Sattin Packing Company dropped to second place after leading Saturday night with 2,643.

Last night 23 teams, all representing Columbus bowling circles garnered only average scores.

Saturday night competition continues with teams participating from Cincinnati, Galion, Hamilton, Akron, Dayton, Woodville and Columbus.

CLUBS HOLD POSTS

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—For all the hard fought games of last week, the National Hockey league clubs ended the week in the same order in which they started it. The Boston Bruins and Montreal Canadiens still lead their respective divisions, with the only interest in them coming from Boston's 2 to 1 triumph Saturday night when they met in a showdown between the two leaders

NEW YORK FRESHMAN SETS INDOOR RECORD

Clears Bar at Six Feet Seven Inches To Break Osborn Mark.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—A backyard jumping style has given George Spitz, 19 year old New York University freshman, the world's indoor high jump record, using a style he worked out for himself. Jumping in the back yard of his home, Spitz jumped six feet seven inches at the Millrose games Saturday night to better the former indoor record by a quarter of an inch.

Spitz set a world's schoolboy record last spring when he cleared 6 feet 4⅛ inches at an indoor meet. Since then he had added nearly three inches to his best height.

Coach Emil Von Elling of N. Y. U. never has tried to change the style that carried the youngster to game when he was competing for Flushing high school. It is an odd combination of the old style scissors jump with a roll added at the top to carry him over at the great heighth.

In setting the new record, Spitz defeated Harold Osborn, veteran Olympic star who holds the outdoor record of six feet 8¼ inches and who had made the best previous indoor mark from a board like off, 6 feet 4⅞.

ST. MARY LOSES

Prospect Alumni Wins Overtime Battle; Girl Teams Play.

When Fremont St. Anne failed to put in its appearance for a game with St. Mary High school Saturday night the Prospect High school alumni team played the St. Mary alumni, the Irish five losing 18 to 16 in an overtime battle. In a preliminary game the Academy Aces and Irish Rockets girls teams played. The Rockets won 8 to 7.

St. Mary High school lost to Mt Vernon St. Vincent Friday night on the Mt. Vernon court 25 to 12.

Leadership at Stake in Big 10 Game Tonight

By International News Service.

EVANSTON, Ill., Feb. 9—Temporary leadership in the Western conference basketball race will be at stake tonight when the two Big Ten leaders, Minnesota and Northwestern clash at Patten gymnasium.

Northwestern, as yet unbeaten in five conference engagements, is apparently headed for a cage title to hang beside the football honors which the Purple gathered in last fall. Minnesota has won four of its five games to retain second place. A victory by the Gopher five will deadlock the two teams for first place.

TO SETTLE HIGHEST POSTS IN 7 LOOPS

Four Marion County League Races to Virtually End; Y-Indus Defends State Title.

SEVERAL championships of leagues in which teams of Marion or the surrounding area are members will likely be decided before this week passes. There will undoubtedly be games played after this week which will have a lot to do with where teams lower than first place finish but most of the championships will be cinched within the next six days.

The North Central Ohio league chase will probably be decided Friday night as the six members clash in a trio of league frays. Ashland, strong favorites to cop the crown, will visit Marion for a tilt with Harding. Mansfield's threatening Tygers will journey to Galion for a battle with the Orangemen and Bucyrus will be host to Shelby.

If Ashland hands Harding a setback Friday there will be little left to stop the title-march of the Hilltoppers. Galion still has a possible chance to win should Mansfield be defeated but the odds are all in favor of Ashland. The Starmen would have to drop the last three games and Galion would have to win all the rest to keep the Ashlanders out of the top post. Harding, unless it flashes a return to the form shown in one or two games this year will not have much of a chance against Ashland here Friday.

Morral Boys Lead

The boys and girls titles of both the Eastern and Western divisions of the Marion county circuit will likely be cinched this week. The Prospect boys are expected to fall before the onrushing Morral outfit to give the former team its seventh straight victory and the Western half crown.

The race in the girls half of the Western division is the widest open of the four county disputes. Prospect is in the lead with an .833 percentage with Pleasant trailing with .750. Morral is third with .667. Pleasant is finished with its eight game schedule but still has a chance for honors depending on how other games come out. The final results of the race depends mainly on the outcome of the Morral-Prospect game this week. The two teams stack up about even at present

Renew Feud Friday

Martel and Waldo in the Eastern boys section will renew their feud for the title Friday night on the Waldo court. Martel won a close game last Friday on the Martel court from Waldo but is given no more than an even break this week with Waldo playing at home. Whichever of the two wins this week will more than likely meet the winner of the Eastern half in the playoff for the county title

Claridon girls appear the best bet for the championship in the Eastern half of the county. At present they are leading the pack with

ROUGHHOUSE BOUTS TO HOLD ATTENTION IN GRAPPLING SHOW

Shimkus vs. Robinson Bout Promises Action Aplenty; Prelim at 8:30 Tonight.

BY KARL R. M'ELROY

IT will be roughhouse night at the Steam Shovel gym and the wise boys are buying their front row tickets early. The big attraction tonight at 8:30 will be the feud between Joe Shimkus of Boston and Clyde Robinson of St. Louis

These two boys will get together in the main-go event of the Steam Shovel program of socks and flops. It will be a two-fall-out-of-three event with no time limit. The boys will weigh in between 135 and 150 pounds.

Speaking of roughness, this Shimkus is a bad boy. Even bad boys must have their good points and in case of Shimkus he provides fans with many interesting moments.

Of course his opponent will not be an angel of the mat. Robinson is anything but gentle. He is a big willing and anxious to please boy who is not in the least worried by the killer type. In fact he is quite handy with his mits and his feet are not what some would say made of clay.

A couple of weeks ago the main-go principals appeared for the first time in the local ring. The match went on both in and out of the ring as well as for 30 minutes to a draw.

The semi-final bout of 30 minutes tonight will bring together "Tiger" McKee of Louisville, Ky., and Joe Campbell of Buffalo, N. Y. This match is threatening the main go for its share of the spotlight.

Possessing a remarkable physique, Campbell is one of the comers in the light-heavy ranks. Wednesday night in Columbus he will meet Joe Banaski for the Mid-west Wrestling association crown.

McKee is really a tiger when he gets into the ring With him every thing is rough and tumble and he usually can be relied on to give fans his share of excitement.

In addition two preliminary events will be staged. The first will start at 8:30

Frank Bail, pro at Bobby Jones' home golf course, set a new record of 65 or five less than par over the greens

Fighters Refuse Bout with Tommy Loughran

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9—Wanted: An opponent for Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, former world's light-heavyweight champion. Nate Lewis, matchmaker for the Comiskey park stadium, signed Loughran to box a bout Feb. 20, but when it came to locating a warrior to oppose him, he was shunned by all he approached.

Tuffy Griffiths refused to sign, contending he was a match with Jack Sharkey, for instance. Charlie Retzlaff, the Duluth, Minn., knockerout, also was out, claiming he damaged his hand polishing off Johnny Risko in Detroit last Friday night. Matchmaker Lewis is scouring the unteers.

Gentlemen:

More and better health to you in your fight against the spitting evil. Your advertisements attacking spit-tipped cigars have my commendation.

You are fighting the battle of the health commissioners in striving for better sales of your non-spit-tipped cigars. I am not interested in your specific product. I am interested in public health.

That is why I am writing you.

You can publish this letter if you care to.

Very sincerely,

Rushmore Lape
Health Officer, Fair Haven Vermont

...one of 56 health officials from 56 different points approving Cremo's crusade against spit or spit-tipping.

Every smoker, every wife whose husband smokes cigars, should read Dr. Lape's letter.

"Who are the friends of 'Spit'?"

YOU MAY WELL ASK THIS QUESTION WHEN 56 IMPORTANT HEALTH OFFICIALS HAVE WRITTEN SO STRONGLY AGAINST THE EVILS OF SPIT OR SPIT-TIPPING.

Dr. Lape writes: "Your advertisements attacking spit-tipped cigars have my commendation."

The war against spit is a crusade of decency. Join it...Smoke Certified Cremo—a really wonderful smoke—mild—mellow—nut-sweet! Every leaf entering the clean, sunny Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

In this period of cold weather and cracked lips, above all insist on a cigar—free of the spit germ.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meat, Grain, Livestock

Beets and carrots at 10 cents a bunch were new on the retail market today. These are grown in southern states. They partially supplant other imported produce including carrots formerly selling at five cents a pound.

Mushrooms are slightly cheaper today, selling at 60 to 70 cents a pound. Mushrooms are grown in specially prepared beds near Cleveland. The former price was five cents a pound higher.

Although eggs prices varied slightly under the pressure of an oversupply Saturday, little change in today's retail market was made. The price range continues at 20 to 26 cents a dozen.

GRAINS SCORE FRESH GAINS

Decreased Liverpool Stocks Cause Advances Despite Drouth Relief Advices.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9—Influenced by advanced asking prices for Argentine and Canadian wheat and by decreased stocks at Liverpool, grains tended upward early today. Selling pressure was absent, despite soaking rains in large sections of drouth territory. Opening at ¼ cent off to ½ up, wheat later scored material upturns. Corn started unchanged to ¾ higher and subsequently rose all around.

Reasons given for higher prices on Argentine wheat included wet weather causing additional delay to threshing and exports. Simultaneously, Liverpool stocks showed a falling off to 3,800,000 bushels, hardly more than half the total a year ago. A decided increase of the amount of wheat on ocean passage compared both with last week and last year failed to act as an offset. France was reported buying at full premiums, with supplies at Paris smaller.

Dearth of selling pressure, which was conspicuous in grains much of the time, was associated with sunshiny conditions reported over wide areas that still complained of moisture shortage. At various places, river stages were noted at 3.2 feet, against 2.9 last year. Corn and oats advanced with wheat, despite liberal receipts of corn here, 236 cars, compared with 131 a week ago. Primary arrivals of corn were 1,310,000 bushels and a week ago 1,184,000, but 1,646,000, a year back.

Provisions rose with grains.

five won and one lost. If they win the remaining two games on the schedule the title will be theirs, regardless of what the other contenders do.

Can't Be Stopped

In the Marion Y-Church league the title rush of the Presbyterians will go on this week without interruption. The Preshics need only to beat St. Mary Tuesday night to assure themselves no less than a tie for the crown. A surprise victory for Reformed over Waldo this week would make certain a clear title for the Preshies.

The Shovel Y-Indus club, though not a member of any league will be battling this week to retain honors won last year in the State Y conference tournament. The Shovel club won the championship last season and will defend it Saturday in East Liverpool against a bevy of contenders.

HEPBURN MAN DIES

Henry Amweg, 79, Succumbs; Ill Two Weeks.

HEPBURN, Feb. 9—Henry Amweg, 79, died at his home one mile south of here Saturday night after an illness of two weeks with complications.

Funeral services will be held in the United Brethren church Tuesday at 2 p. m. Interment will be made in the Morrison cemetery.

Surviving are the widow, two daughters, Mrs. Ed Lubbs and Mrs. John McClaren, one brother, Dan Amweg of Kenton. He was born in Fairfield county in 1852.

BARBER STRICKEN

William Cowan of Kenton Dies Suddenly at Home.

KENTON, Feb. 9—William Cowan, 50, local barber, died at his home here Sunday noon following a stroke of paralysis.

Cowan was stricken while attending services at the First Reformed church. He died a few hours later.

Surviving in the immediate family are the widow and two sons. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

KENTON, Feb. 9—According to the January report of Willard Holland, manager of the Hardin County Livestock Cooperative Shipping association, 573 farmers shipped 53 loads of livestock to market. Gross market value of the 2,660 hogs, weighing 302,300 pounds; 77 cattle, weighing 76,330 pounds, 135 calves, weighing 23,700 pounds; and 1,296 sheep, weighing 98,270 pounds, was $61,003.37.

GIVEN PAROLE

Albert Cole, Sentenced for Forgery, Granted Freedom.

Aulbert Cole, sentenced from Marion county, is one of 66 inmates of the London prison farm who will be paroled from the institution during March and April, the state board of clemency ruled today. The list is the longest in the farm's history.

Cole was given a minimum sentence of one year on Jan. 16, 1930, when he pleaded guilty in common pleas court to a charge of uttering a forged instrument. Another charge of forgery was nolled at the same time.

Warner Manley, sentenced from Hardin county on a larceny charge, also is on the list of those to be paroled.

GETS $10 FINE

R. J. Foust, 37, of 210 Windsor street was fined $10 in municipal court this morning when he pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct. Police arrested him at 3:20 a. m. yesterday when he failed to give a satisfactory explanation for his presence on the street at that hour.

FARMERS OPEN ANNUAL EVENT

Pleasant Township Institute Begins Two-Day Meeting Today at School.

The Pleasant Township Farmers Institute opened this morning for a two-day meeting of six sessions. Mrs. A. H. Hendrix and R. E. Swan, institute speakers spoke at the morning and afternoon sessions and will speak again tonight. Mrs. Hendrix on "Raising Your Own Living" and Mr. Swan on "Delivering the Goods."

The program this morning opened with a hymn sung by a mixed quartet including Martha Mautz, Mary Cooper, Robert Zieg and Charles Robinson. R. A. Moore, superintendent of the school, led the devotional service after which the quartet sang another hymn. Miss Zella Young gave a piano solo and grades one and two sang a group of songs, "The Cobbler," "Snow Time," "Has Has Black Sheep," "Bobby Shafto" and "Dapple Gray."

Mrs. Hendrix spoke on "The Mound Builders," after which the first grade demonstrated three folk games. Mr. Swan's talk was on "Getting the Most Out of Life." The third and fourth grades contributed several songs.

This afternoon Mrs. Hendrix and Mr. Swan held individual section meetings with the women and men, discussing problems of the farm home and fields. Harold Compton, director of music in the county schools, led community singing. The high school chorus gave a demonstration music lesson followed by a social time of stunts and a closing song.

Tonight in addition to the addresses by the institute speakers, Mr. Compton, with Miss Martha Mautz as accompanist, will sing a group of Scotch songs in costume and will lead the community singing.

SCHOOL WILL ENROLL NIGHT CLASS PUPILS

Vocational Department in Harding High Plans Courses in Four Subjects.

Night school classes extending over a 10-week period will be offered by the Marion public schools beginning Monday at 7 p. m. when registration is scheduled to be held in the basement of Harding High school, where the shops are located.

Classes will be offered in shop mathematics, mechanical drawing and blueprint reading, and machine and woodshop practice, according to L. H. Rieker, supervisor. No class will be organized, however, unless 10 or more students enroll.

Each student will be assessed $2 for each subject taken in order to help defray expenses.

O. C. Ice will be in charge of the mechanical drawing and blueprint reading class, while William Roberts will be teacher in the shop courses, Rieker said today.

The classes will be held every Monday and Wednesday nights during the 10 weeks.

Although the school board last fall planned not to offer night school this year, the classes will be given this semester in response to a demand for them, it was said.

POLICE HOLD TWO

Acting on instructions of Probate Judge Oscar Gast to clear the streets of juveniles after nightfall, police late Saturday night arrested Don Barton, 16, of 294 Nye street and Harry Ingmier, 17, of 343 Nye street. They were on North Prospect street at the time. They were taken to the detention home where they will be held until taken before Judge Gast.

Friends Learn Details of Death of Ralph Riley.

The death of Ralph Riley, brother of Harry Riley, former Marion resident, who was killed last Thursday night at Peoria, Ill., resulted from an automobile accident, it was learned here today.

Circumstances surrounding his death were vague when friends of Riley first heard of his death Saturday, but it was reported today that the man was killed in an automobile accident.

The body was taken to Columbus Sunday and then sent to Athens for burial today.

Riley who lived at Aurora, Ill., frequently visited his brother, Harry, when the latter lived at 616 Pearl street.

BALLROOM IS SCENE OF SECOND CONCERT

Lecturo-Recital Club Presents Marion Artists in Public Program.

A delightful and varied program was presented Sunday afternoon in the ballroom at Hotel Harding when the Marion Lecture-Recital club sponsored the second of its series of three civic concerts. The ballroom was well filled with persons interested in music and those taking part were accorded enthusiastic applause in their numbers. The last of the series will be given next Sunday. It was announced by Miss George Turney Myers, civic chairman of the club.

The programs are presented free and music lovers are invited to attend.

Miss Harry T. Williams and Miss Dale Yambert opened the program with a piano duo, "Valse Arabesque," Lack, and Miss Virginia Fowler was heard in a group of three contralto solos, "Oh, Thou Mighty Sea," DeBeo, "Dawn," Curran and "Song Is So Old," Terry.

These were followed by two piano numbers, "Valse Brilliante" and "Valse" Chopin by Miss Elfrieda Horn, and Mrs. George T. Denman, Miss Marian Bower and Miss Helen Stecher formed a trio for the presentation of three vocal numbers, "Last Night," Kjerulf, "Sweetheart Land," Huerter and "Faith, Hope and Love," Shelley. The closing number was a violin solo, "Ballade and Polonaise" (Opus 38), Vieux-Temps, by Miss Clara Leffler.

LARGE CONGREGATION HEARS REV. GEORGE

Wesley M. E. Church Pastor Opens Second Week of Revival Services.

Wesley M. E. church was well filled last night to hear Rev. W. Martell George, pastor, talk on "Weighed in the Balance and Found 'Vanting." The sermon opened the second week revival services at the church.

In the sermon Rev. George spoke as follows: "There is a limit to which an individual may go in defance of God. We must be very careful. Although this nation is the largest nation of the world, it has the most crime of any nation. It seems God will soon call a halt.

"Everyone will be weighed in the balance, according to the righteousness of our lives in the judgment of God. Judgment is sure. God warns against sin in the scripture and what shall be the outcome of making the destiny in the individual. There will be no bribery in the day of judgment. You will stand before Christ just as you are. A man can't stand before the throne of God and say he did not know. Because the word of God tells us the way of righteousness."

There were four responses to the altar call. Tonight the Gleaners and the Daughters of Ruth classes will attend the meeting in a body. Rev. George will preach on "The Supreme Significance of the Cross."

SUES FOR SHARE OF FARM CROPS

Fred B. Crow Claims Tenant Failed To Live Up to Agreement.

Charging that the defendants failed to abide by their agreement to share their crops on an equal basis with him, Fred B. Crow Saturday in common pleas court filed suit against William L. Knapp and others, tenants on a Scott township farm owned by the plaintiff.

He claims the defendants obtained 3,000 bushels of corn from the farm last year but that they have neglected to make an equal distribution of the grain in accordance with the agreement. He charges they also failed to abide by other terms of the share contract.

The plaintiff, who is represented by the law firm of Donithen & Donithen, asks the court to make an accounting of the crops and to give him judgment for the amount allegedly due him.

Sues for Bill

Payment of an alleged balance of $341.36 on a bill for fertilizers is asked by Swift & Co. in a suit filed Saturday in common pleas court against Herbert L. Jones of Laifue. The original bill was $708.01, according to the petition. C. C. Fisher is attorney for the plaintiff.

Asks Foreclosure

A judgment of $22,000 is sought in a foreclosure suit filed Saturday in common pleas court against Alfred W. Jones and others by the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. The mortgaged property is a 371-acre tract in Bowling Green township. French Crow is attorney for the plaintiff.

Divorce Granted

John W. Mason today was granted a divorce from Treva M. Mason on grounds of gross neglect, after the defendant had withdrawn an answer to the plaintiff's original suit. The plaintiff was represented by Attorney L. E. Myers.

Sale Confirmed

Sale of property involved in the foreclosure suit brought by the La-Rue Bank Co against Frank R. Wright and others was confirmed by common pleas court today. A deed and distribution of the proceeds were ordered. The law firm of Clark & Arter represented the plaintiff.

Wants Deed

John H. Willis Saturday filed suit in common pleas court against Minnie Willis for return of a deed to 22 acres of land in Bowling Green township. The plaintiff claims to have conveyed the deed to the defendant as collateral for a $340 loan, but that after the loan had been repaid the deed was not returned to him. He is represented by the law firm of Mouser, Young, Mouser & Wiant.

BURGLARS GET PENNIES

KENTON, Feb. 9—A few pennies comprised the loot obtained by burglars last night from the offices of the Hardin County Farm Bureau. A rear door panel was broken.

If Your Ears Ring With Head Noises

If you have catarrhal deafness or head noises go to Henney & Cooper or your druggist and get 1 oz. of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¾ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take a tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare costs little, and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.—Adv.

POLICE START DRIVE ON UNLIGHT "BIKES"

Near Accident Here Brings Warning from Police Chief Marks.

Marion bicycle riders who pedal their vehicles on the street after dark or before sunrise must equip their bicycles with lights, police warned today.

Following a narrowly averted accident in which a bicycle rider was missed only a few inches by an automobile, police announced that provisions of city traffic code calling for lights on all vehicles after dark would be rigidly enforced.

Police Chief William E. Marks also announced this morning that only one person will be permitted on a bicycle. The practice of bicycle riders hauling a passenger on the "handle bars" is taboo, he said.

FARMERS AIDED BY FEED COSTS

Lower Expense Tends To Offset Slump in Price of Livestock.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 9 — Feed and livestock prices appear to have about the same relation to each other as a year ago, says a bulletin issued here today by the Ohio Farm Bureau Corporation. The bulletin continues that so much is said of low prices received for farm products that the lowered cost of feed is likely to be overlooked. This balancing of livestock and feed prices, the bulletin says, does not mean that Ohio farmers cannot show the same gain as last year because much of the feed produced by farmers is raised by them, so that the gains in livestock may be offset by losses on feed.

Comparisons Cited

Livestock prices are between 75 and 80 per cent of a year ago, except for lambs, which are about 57 per cent of last year. Corn and oats prices at the farm are averaging about 75 per cent of last year. Chicago price for these grains is considerably lower than this, but the farm price is practically the same in relation to last year as are livestock prices, with each from 75 to 80 per cent.

Bran and middlings are about 65 per cent of last year, and cotton seed meal is 73 per cent of a year ago. Hominy feed is in about the same relative position in respect to last year.

Corn and butter prices are more than 75 per cent of last year at this time, which compares well with feed prices.

Eggs are too low this year in comparison to feed, and lard prices are too low. With these two exceptions, farm products are selling at prices which are well located with reference to feed prices.

Not Whole Story

The comparison of feed and livestock selling prices does not tell the whole story, however, because much of the livestock was purchased or produced on a higher basis.

Hog prices are $2 under a year ago—which averages 82 per cent of last year as against corn, which is 80 per cent of last year or less at the farm.

Quite a few hogs, says the bulletin, which are now being sold have been held over from last year, so that on the present level of prices there is a loss from last year.

There is also a loss in dairying because dairymen frequently sell cows. The selling price for milk cows is only 65 per cent of a year ago.

It may be repeated, the bulletin suggests, that while farmers are suffering because of current price levels for livestock and other products of the farm, the fact must be recognized that the reduction in feed prices has materially helped the situation so that farm conditions are not as bad as otherwise might have been expected.

NEW CLUES SOUGHT

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 9—Police were searching for new clues in the death of Mrs. Nellie Jump, 29, after eight men held in connection with the death had been released. Coroner O. O. Hausch of Lake county said death was caused by punctures of heart, lungs and a slashed throat.

CANNON BACK IN HOSPITAL

Bishop Resting Following Trial and Acquittal by Church Elders.

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 — Tired from the ordeal of his week long trial before a jury of 12 elders of the Episcopal church, South, which cleared him of 15 charges against his character, Bishop James Cannon Sr. was resting at Sibley hospital today, preparatory to returning to Marlin Springs, Tex., where he was under treatment for arthritis when called before the church board.

The verdict, believed unanimous, was reached by the board after two hours of deliberation and was announced in a curt, cold sentence, which Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, presiding officer made public.

"The committee found no trial necessary," the churchmen reported. Bishop Ainsworth refused to comment.

From the hospital Bishop Cannon said: "The verdict speaks for itself. I am very tired, and I am going to take a much-needed rest."

The charges brought by four traveling elders dealt with Cannon's political activities when he led the anti-Smith forces in Virginia and the South during the bitter Hoover-Smith campaign, his stock market speculations and affairs of a more intimate nature.

Evidence presented by the elders was documentary, and required three days. Cannon's two-day defense it was learned, was refutation of dates and places referred to in the affidavits read by his prosecutors.

LIMA POLICE MOVE WALL, FIND LIQUOR

Huge Panel Moved by Electric Motor Conceals "Plant"; Man Held.

Special to The Star.

LIMA, O., Feb. 9. Declared by local police and state prohibition agents to have owned the most intricate and cleverly concealed liquor "plant" ever uncovered in this section of the county, James Benedetto, 32, charged with illegal possession of liquor, will go on trial Tuesday morning in criminal court here.

A squad of raiding officers claimed to have confiscated 200 pints of bonded whisky and 30 gallons of alcohol in the Benedetto home here. The accused man pleaded not guilty when arraigned Saturday, and Judge Neil R. Poling fixed bond at $1,000 for his appearance Tuesday.

The "plant," according to the raiding officers, was a hidden room, to which access was gained by moving an entire section of the wall. This was made possible by a mechanism motivated by an electric motor. The motor was started by inserting a long thin strip of metal in a crevice in the wall so as to form an electrical contact. After a prolonged and futile attempt to move the wall the officers were preparing to smash their way into the liquor cache when Benedetto is said to have shown them how to operate the mechanism.

ONE SHEEP KILLED

A claim of $8 for one sheep killed by dogs was filed with county commissioners Saturday by H. H. Straw of R. F. D. 2, LaRue, through County Dog Warden Dale Rhoads. Rhoads impounded three dogs during the week, his report shows.

PASTOR'S DAUGHTER DIES IN HOSPITAL

Miss Marie Yerby To Be Buried Here After Services Tuesday at 1 P. M.

Funeral services for Miss Marie Yerby, 21, colored daughter of Rev. J. C. Yerbey, pastor of Mt. Zion Baptist church on Senate street, will be held Tuesday at 1 p. m. at the Mt. Zion church. Miss Yerbey, who had been ill since September, died Saturday at 5:30 p. m. in the Franklin County hospital.

She was born April 1, 1909, in Clifton, Tenn., to Rev. Yerbey, a native of Robertson, Ala., and Clara Cathey Yerbey, a native of Martin's Mills, Tenn. Her mother preceded her in death.

A half-brother and half sister live in Tennessee.

Rev. C. A. Gray of Elyria will officiate at the funeral services Tuesday. Burial will be made in Marion cemetery. The body will be removed from the Schaffner-Queen funeral home today, and may be viewed at the Yerbey home until Tuesday at 1 p. m.

Mrs. Imbody Hostess to Agosta Ladies' Aid

AGOSTA, Feb. 9—Mrs. James Imbody was hostess to the Ladies' Aid society of the Agosta M. E. church at her home south of town Wednesday. The time was spent piecing comforter tops. A cafeteria dinner was served.

The business meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. Delilah Dutton. Twenty-four members answered to roll call. Mrs. Clifford Schultz and son John Edward of Green Camp and Mrs. Jess Dutton and Mrs. Ellsworth Carey were visitors.

TO HOLD HEARING

A continued hearing on the petition of W. H. Holverstott and others for improvement of a ditch in Claridon township will be held in the offices of county commissioners Tuesday at 10 a. m. at the courthouse.

Studies by the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters have shown that a ton of dry oak leaves contains 2.6 pounds of phosphate, 18.8 pounds of nitrogen and seven pounds of potash.

Marion Minister Speaks at Galion Church Sunday

GALION, Feb. 9—Sunday marked the occasion for the annual Fellowship day of the Church of Christ here. The Sunday school services were followed by a sermon, "Divine Providence," by Rev. M. L. Buckley of Marion. A potluck luncheon was served at the noon hour to a crowd of about 65. A musical program included a vocal solo by Mrs. Catherine Foltz Rorick and violin and music selections by the Misses Doris and Ulah Gilmore. An illustrated lecture on "Bolingue, Africa," will be presented next Sunday by Rev. Buckley.

AGED MARION MAN CLAIMED BY DEATH

W. C. Greenland, 77, Dies at Home of Daughter; Services Tuesday

William Calvin Greenland, 77, died yesterday at 5:15 a. m. at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Clarence Gorenflo of 475 East Mark street, after a two weeks illness of complications.

Besides his daughter, Mrs. Gorenflo, he leaves four sons, David Greenland and Roy Greenland of Senate street, William Greenland of Columbus and Thomas Greenland of 971 Davida street. A brother, Reuben Greenland, lives on Avondale avenue. One sister also survives him.

Mr. Greenland was born April 4, 1854, in Altoona, Pa., to Ephriam and Ellen Lutz Greenland. Elizabeth Owens, to whom he was married in 1878, preceded him in death six years ago.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 3 p. m. at Greenwood Evangelical church with the pastor, Rev. Irvin Kauffman, officiating. Interment will be made in Marion cemetery. The body will be removed from the Schaffner-Queen funeral home on East Center street today and may be viewed at the East Mark street address until funeral time.

LEAVENS SAYS ROADS IN GOOD CONDITION

Dry Season Aids County Force in Maintaining Highways Here.

Roads in Marion county are in unusually good condition for this season of the year due to the dryness of the ground, County Surveyor Cecil R. Leavens said today.

The drouth of last summer, coupled with the lack of snow and rain this winter, has resulted in the good condition of the roads.

Spots where the roads have begun to weaken are being repaired by the county road force which is using only county-owned equipment due to the curtailed budget for road maintenance and repair this year. The expense is being borne by a $40,000 surplus existing from last year's road funds, but as soon as the gasoline tax money for this year becomes available the maintenance and repair costs will be paid with that income, leaving the major portion of the $40,000 for emergency purposes.

The county in the past has had $180,000 for road purposes, but this was denied by voters last fall who refused to renew the road levy although only one mill, which would bring an income of $90,000, was asked, as compared to the two-mill levy which had been in existence for the last 10 years.

Force of character is what makes one do hard things easily.

BIG QUESTIONS ON WEEK'S LIST

Taxation and Proposed Dry Law Repeal Before State Legislators.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 9—Revision of Ohio's taxation system will get under way this week with the appointment of a joint legislative committee of two Democrats and three Republicans to draw up new laws as required by the classification amendment, which will replace the old uniform rule plan.

The Democratic committeemen were named last week. They are Senator William A. Greenlund of Cleveland and Representative Clarence H. Burk of Huron county. The Republican members probably will be announced when the general assembly reconvenes tonight.

Since the Democrats have given the rural and urban centers equal representation, it is expected the majority party will do likewise. Informally, however, Republican senate chieftains indicated they would seek to appoint two urbanites.

Besides taxation and further discussions on the drouth and unemployment situation, the legislators must give their attention to several other important questions during the next few days. These include prohibition, which caused a stir earlier in the session when numerous bills and resolutions to wipe out all liquor laws were introduced. The first hearing on this question will be held Tuesday when the house judiciary committee takes up the Nippert resolution calling for a referendum to repeal the state prohibition amendment. The referendum would be held next November.

MRS. NORA OWEN DIES IN ILLINOIS

Former Marion Resident To Be Brought Here for Burial.

The body of Mrs. Nora Owen, 63, native of Marion county who died Saturday morning at St. James, Ill., will be brought to Marion Tuesday morning to await funeral services. Mrs. Owen had lived in St. James for the last 25 years, going there from Marion with her husband, Dr. Claude Owen, who practiced medicine here for a number of years after their marriage.

Mrs. Owen was formerly Nora Weiss, daughter of John and Mary E. Squibb Weiss, both deceased. She was born at Claridon. Dr. Owen survives his wife. She was a member of the M. E. church at St. James and of the Order of Eastern Star at St. Elmo, near St. James.

Besides her husband she leaves three children, James of Clinton, Ind., Bertha of Charleston, Ill., and Hazel at home, and her sisters and brother, Mrs. Flora Hickman of Marion, Mrs. Harrison Shuck of Marion, Mrs. Philip Bauer of Winter park, Fla., and Ora Weiss of south of Marion. A daughter, her parents and two brothers preceded her in death.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. at the W. C. Boyd funeral home on South Main street, in charge of Rev. T. J. Maxwell. Interment will be made in the Claridon cemetery.

PEDESTRIAN INJURED AT STREET CROSSING

Don't Go Around Feeling Half Sick

There's no excuse for letting yourself get run down. No reason why you shouldn't be 100 per cent fit. The man or woman who feels tired and sickly most of the time won't ever get along in business or social life.

The way to keep fit, doctors tell us, is to take cod liver oil.

But don't try to take cod liver oil the old-fashioned liquid way. Don't overload your stomach with a lot of fatty nasty-tasting oil. Take it the modern way—in tiny tasteless tablets.

These tablets, called McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, are made from the vitamins of purest Norwegian cod liver oil. All the healthful benefits of the oil are in these tablets. Doctors now prescribe them. The Good Housekeeping Institute has tested and approved them.

All you need to do to get the vitamins your run-down system needs is to ask your druggist for a box of McCoy's. Go to him and get your box today, 60 tablets—60 cents.—Adv.

JOAN CRAWFORD IN "PAID," ANOTHER PICTURE OF PRISONS

Palace Show Is Talkie Production of "Within the Law."

BY HALLIE HOUCK

AN intensely dramatic part has fallen to the lot of Joan Crawford as "Mary Turner" in "Paid," the talking production of the stage and silent picture, "Within the Law" The picture opens at the Palace Tuesday for a three-day stay

Both Norma Talmadge and Alice Joyce made silent screen versions of Bayard Veiller's famous crook drama Marie Prevost, of whom little has been heard for many moons, has an important role as the "come on" girl John Miljan, Kent Douglass and Robert Armstrong have important roles in this story of a girl who seeks revenge against society by leading a criminal life kept "within the law" through her knowledge of legal loopholes

This is Joan Crawford Fairbanks' first big dramatic role Heretofore she's devoted her time to lighter comedy of the "Our Dancing Daughters" "Our Blushing Brides" type which she has nevertheless made delightful entertainment

Three thousand plates, pots and pans as well as countless knives forks and spoons had to be dirtied and cleaned at least six times a day during the making of prison kitchen scenes for "Paid" The huge pile of tableware and mess equipment was first soiled by the studio property men who dipped them in vats of greasy food refuse They then were cleaned and scoured during the scenes by players and extras, each scene meaning a complete change

Be indifferent to happiness and you may come up with some

JUGGLER, SONG ACT AND REVUE FEATURE PALACE BILL TODAY

Movie Stars Evelyn Brent in "Madonna of the Streets."

The second stage show of the season features the program which opened yesterday at the Palace and which will be offered for the final times today.

Leslie Hall, juggler, Helen Kennedy, singer, and De. Albert's Parisian revue comprise the stage presentation, which was augmented by the Palace syncopators.

The picture is "Madonna of the Streets," a Columbia release featuring Evelyn Brent and Robert Ames. The story concerns a girl who has been a companion to a wealthy man for years but has refused to marry him

Although he intends to bestow his wealth on the girl, the man dies suddenly and his fortune, according to an earlier will, goes to a philanthropic nephew The girl knowing the money was intended for her, is determined to wrest it from the nephew who is running a mission in San Francisco She had not figured in falling in love with him and the story naturally has an entirely different ending

Some excellent dancing is offered in the Parisian revue which is made up of five girls and two men Hall, the juggler, does some stunts which gained the audience's applause, while Miss Kennedy put over her songs a la Winnie Lightner

A Chester Conklin comedy, "Studio Sap," proves that movie-goers still like pie-throwing slapsticks The Paramount News completes the bill G W

JOE BROWN GETS LAUGHS AS USUAL

You'll chuckle alright, and sometimes emit a hearty laugh at Joe Brown and the cast of "Going Wild" playing at the Ohio through Wednesday Frank McHugh a hotel owner and Johnny Arthur, his desk man come in for the laughs when they're on the screen

This picture smacks mysteriously of another aviation picture done by Edward Everett Horton last year, but the Horton and Brown comedy is different in a million ways, although coming to the same end, laughs, and you'll enjoy Brown's picture on aviation

There is a corking scene when Brown rigs up a Murphy bed with tapes in such a manner that he can sit at the foot with the handle of a vacuum cleaner as the joy stick, and an aviation book as his guide

Lawrence Gray, as Browns manager, has little to do with the picture except to form a quiet romance with Ruth Howard Brown is mistaken for a famous authority on aviation and is forced to fly in a contest with a famous stunt flyer You'll get a kick out of his physical examination

If comedy fare is what you want, you'll enjoy the clean cut comedy of Brown's picture

"Africa Speaks," at the Marion tonight and Tuesday, is an entertaining travelogue of the wilds of the black man's country There is no story woven through the picture, that is, in the word accepted by modern movie goers, but the picture has a bigger story to tell, that of the romances loves and hates that throb through the trackless forests of darkest Africa

Little chattering pygmies, 50 inches tall, who have brought trial marriage to a perfected state that would shock the sensitive and fascinate the modern mind. The giants of the Wasara's, the deadly female sharpshooters of the jungles, the hand-to-hand struggle with giant lions—the beating of drums heard and relayed for hundreds of miles, the swarm of locusts that cover the sky as far as the eye can see, one thrill after another greets the audience of "Africa Speaks"

This picture was taken by Paul L Hoefler for the Colorado African Expedition and is one of the most interesting travelogues of several that have been released in the last several years

MANY OHIO FARMS USING ELECTRICITY

More Than 45 Per Cent Have Service, Investigator Reports.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 9—More than 45 per cent of the 219,000 farms in Ohio are served either by individual electric lighting plants or central stations, I. B Blauser, of the Ohio State university department of agriculture, has found.

Blauser, who has been conducting cost experiments for all sorts of electric equipment for the university, points out just what sort of electrical equipment the farmer can afford to buy.

There are more than 200 uses for electricity on the average Ohio farm, Blauser says, and almost all electrified farms have some similar equipment. Nearly all have an electric washing machine and an electric iron. The electricity used by the washing machine costs no more than 2½ to 4 cents a week, and the cost of running a flat iron is about 2½ cents an hour.

Electric water systems, for both deep and shallow wells, are prized highly by farmers, the electric specialist says. The cost of operation varies from six cents for 1,000 gallons for shallow systems to eight cents for deep ones

LEGION POST HERE CITED FOR PROGRESS

Increase in Membership Brings Honor from National Headquarters.

Bird McGinnis Post No 162, American Legion, has been cited by the national organization for its successful membership drive which ended Dec. 31, 1930

Between Oct. 20, the end of the Legion's fiscal year, and Jan. 1, 1931, the local post signed up and collected dues from three more members than the 1930 roster, winning the citation.

The official citation has been framed and will be presented to the Legion Tuesday night in a meeting at the dugout by J W. Llewellyn, adjutant.

In the fiscal year 1930, ending Oct. 20, the post had 215 members, according to Adjutant Llewellyn. Between that date and Jan 1, 1931, the post signed up 218 members including most of the 1930 members in a membership drive in charge of D. J McDonald, chairman.

Since that time, the post has increased its roster to 228 members, Adjutant Llewellyn said today

The citation bears the signatures of Ralph T. O'Neil, national commander of the Legion; John A. Elden, state commander; and J. J. Saslavsky, department adjutant.

An entertaining program on Americanization has been arranged for Tuesday night when the citation will be presented to the post by Adjutant Llewellyn. Dr. F. L. Tarmas in charge of the program which includes a talk on the life of Washington by Alfred Donithen, and a talk on the life of Lincoln by Rev. C .E. Turley of the Epworth M. E. church.

The Presbyterian orchestra will furnish for the occasion.

YOU'LL LIKE TRADING AT SCHAFFNER'S

The idea is now generally accepted—

In homes throughout this country the idea of keeping the furnishings "up"—of at least getting rid of the very old and out-of-fashion pieces and suites—is being generally accepted.

This is attested by the fact that furniture stores, in all sections, are finding it necessary to open "trade-in" departments. The insistence on the part of old customers that they be permitted to turn in no-longer wanted pieces as part payment on purchases of modern, up-to-date in style, has gradually FORCED many dealers to open such departments.

Our Exchange Department does a lively business all the time. All you have to do is to call at the store, see if we have in stock just what you want in the way of new furniture, and if we have and our price suits you, then our appraisal man calls at your home and tells you just how much can be allowed for the old furniture you wish to trade in. It's very simple.

The services yesterday morning was in charge of Boy Scout Troop No. 4, of Trinity church. Lesley Reichardt led the responsive reading and Wray Beaver read the scripture lesson, Glenn Wyman is master of the troop and Harry Woodal is assistant master.

The Scout oath and the Scout laws were repeated by the troop in unison. Frank Glosser, chairman of the Harding area, introduced Mr. Brooks. Scouts from other troops in the city were present and took part in the services held in connection with the observance of Annual Scout day.

GLOSSER EXPLAINS REASON FOR WORK

Scouting's "Coming of Age" anniversary is being celebrated in Marion and the Harding Area this week. Hundreds of boys are willing and anxious to become Scouts, but due to the lack of men to serve as leaders more boys apply than can be taken in.

The Boy Scout program recognizes the natural inclinations for championship and organizes boys' gangs into Scout Troops with an adult Scout master as a leader. Reform schools are not filled with Scouts or men who have been Scouts but with young men and boys to whom the opportunities of Scouting have been denied.

FRANK D. GLOSSER,
President,
Harding Area, Boy Scouts.

TERROR SPREAD BY NEW QUAKE

Additional Damage Done by Earth Shocks in New Zealand.

By International News Service.

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Feb. 9—New earth shocks jarred the Hawkes Bay section of North Island today, terrorizing the survivors of Tuesday's disastrous earthquakes and adding further to the property damage in the Napier, Hastings, Wairoa and Gisborne areas.

Further casualties were not reported, but walls and weakened buildings in the several towns crashed down, and at Napier part of a cliff slid off into the sea with a deafening roar.

The latest temblors heaved huge waves along the shore fronts forcing many homeless survivors encamped on beaches to flee inland. Communication lines erected within the last few days by relief squads were torn down. The center of the shocks seemed to be at Napier.

An airplane engaged in relief work crashed during one of the major shocks Sunday, and its three occupants were killed.

Estimates on Tuesday's earthquakes indicate that 1,000 were killed, 2,000 injured and 16,000 rendered homeless.

SENATE COMMITTEE TO OPEN FOOD PROBE

Leading Bakers and Millers To Be Questioned Concerning Price-Fixing.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—Some of the nation's leading bakers and millers have been summoned as witnesses in the senate's investigation of food prices which opens tomorrow.

George Livingston, executive vice president of the Millers National Federation of Minneapolis, Minn., was on the list together with Sydney Anderson, vice president of General Mills, Inc., of Minneapolis, Henry Stude, president of American Bakers Association of Chicago, M. L. Marshall, chairman of Continental Baking company of New York, and Frederick H. Frazier, chairman of General Baking company.

In announcing the names, Chairman Capper of the agriculture subcommittee charged with the investigation said he would seek to report to the senate before adjournment of the present session.

"If evidence of illegal combinations or price-fixing should be developed by the investigation," he said, "the facts will be turned over to the attorney general so that the department of justice may take appropriate action."

The committee has decided to begin its work with an investigation of the prices of bread and flour. Then it will take up in order, meat, milk and dairy products, and sugar.

POSSIBLE RAIN FORECAST

Sunday Moisture Does Little to Alleviate State Water Shortage.

By International News Service.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 9—Slightly colder weather with a possibility of more rain or snow, particularly in the drouth-suffering counties of southern Ohio, is in store for the state during the next week, according to reports at the United States weather bureau here today.

The thermometer registered several degrees lower this morning after several days of spring-like temperatures and the mercury was expected to fall below the freezing mark again tonight. In all parts of Ohio today official reports stated that temperances of from 30 to 35 degrees prevailed.

The rain which fell on southern Ohio did little to relieve the water shortage, weather bureau officials stated. Cloudy weather today gave indications of rain or snow within a few days, but this prediction could not be substantiated.

Forecast Says Temperature To Fall Tonight and Tuesday.

Balmy winter weather which Marionites have been enjoying for several weeks is about to give way to lower temperatures, official weather forecasters indicated today.

Slightly colder and cloudy weather is predicted for tonight and Tuesday, with decidedly colder weather later in the week.

The mercury ranged into the forties yesterday when a high mark of 45 degrees was reported. The low last night was 31, one degree below the freezing mark.

A year ago, the high was 42, the low 28.

HIT "FOOLISH LAWS"

By International News Service.

Tangle of Ambition, Greed, Scandal Climaxed by Potter's Mysterious Death

By United Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 9—A tangled tale of ambition and political greed, colorful and at times scandalous, led to the climax of the murder mystery centering around "Rarin' Bill" Potter, newsboy, bricklayer and local Republican political leader.

William E. Potter, or "Rarin' Bill" as his red-haired aggressiveness had caused him to be known, came to Cleveland in his early youth as a bricklayer, after a boyhood in the Chicago streets as a "newsie." He had spent something more than half his 45 years here. With his bricks he laid the foundation of the political fortune that was to lead him to a violent death.

Potter made friends easily. This facility for attracting people led him to be talked about in the Collinwood district where he lived, and former Mayor Herman C. Baehr picked him for chief inspector of masonry in the city building department. He held this job for years, and then really went into politics.

Elected First to Council

He was defeated for a couple of minor offices, but in 1919 he was elected to the city council. Talkative, gum chewing, hail fellow well met, he was a colorful figure. He drafted a plumbing code, a sanitary code and amendments to the traffic code.

It became known that to "see Bill" was helpful when a special contracting favor was desired, his intimates say.

Feb. 9, 1929, the county grand jury began investigation of the transfer to the city of the Colt road-St. Clair avenue playground site. Potter's name was not mentioned publicly, but privately he was much talked about by investigators. In March he was indicted on the charge of accepting a $500 bribe in a city land deal.

...who he did not believe was Potter, rented the suite Jan. 28.

Potter was one of seven men indicted as a result of the Col-St. Clair deal. Former Councilman Liston G. Schooley and his son, Liston, Jr., pleaded guilty to an interest in a public contract. The younger Schooley, sentenced to one to 10 years, was scheduled to be paroled today. The father is serving five to 10 years.

Potter and City Clerk Fred W. Thomas were acquitted of having an interest in this deal, and Potter was previously acquitted of profiting in another deal.

Harmon G. Atwater, the "go-between" said he obtained an option on the Colt-St. Clair property for $50,000 and Potter and the elder Schooley arranged its purchase by the city for $33,000 more than Michael Froelich, the original owner, received. Atwater also named Potter and Robert Bunowitz as the men who harbored him while he was sought as a fugitive from justice. Bunowitz was convicted but Potter was freed.

ARRANGED FOR LOAN

Report from Banker Provides New Angle to Murder Inquiry.

By United Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 9. While search for the slayer of William E. ("Rarin' Bill") Potter was in progress, it was learned today from Norman S. Hascal, manager of Cleveland Trust Co. branch bank, that Potter had negotiated for a loan on a mortgage between 10:30 and 11 a. m. last Tuesday.

The mortgage was on a cottage at Chagrin Harbor beach, which was owned by Potter but title to which is in the name of his brother-in-law, Albert Hoffman.

"Potter wanted to raise money on the mortgage and he wanted the money quickly," Hascal said.

"The money he asked was a considerable sum. I tried to get in touch with him late Tuesday and complete negotiations for the deal, but I could not locate him."

Regarded As Significant

This revelation of Potter's visit to the bank and his anxious quest of a sizeable amount of money was regarded as significant by the authorities.

"If Potter's murder is solved," Prosecutor Ray T. Miller said today, "I believe it will be found that the killers were involved in the playground graft or were hired by someone implicated to kill Potter to silence him."

Prosecutor Miller last night asked County Detective John E. Toner, now in the office of Sheriff John M. Sulzmann, to assist police in their efforts to solve the crime. Toner is the man who arrested Harmon G. Atwater, alleged go-between and key witness in the deals, who had hidden in Chicago for 10 months.

Miller also assigned Detective Sergeant Patrick Ryan and Detective Dan Candow to help in the case.

Miller said he thought it peculiar that Potter should be murdered while Liston G. Schooley, former councilman, and his son, Liston Jr., serving penitentiary sentences for confessed participation in the graft-ridden deals, were in Cleveland to appear before the county grand jury and within a week of the time Potter was to stand trial for perjury allegedly given in his previous trials in the scandal.

Miller said Potter had not offered to talk and that he had not received any intimation that Potter was willing to bare the details of the plot and give names.

"At first we were pretty brave; thought the other fishermen would notify the coast guard. We were in the blizzard all day long as the ice broke about 8:30 in the morning.

"Wooden frames with canvas on 'em made windbreaks for us. And four or five of us went about a mile and got some charcoal we knew was hidden there. Then about 8 o'clock (Saturday night) it began to sleet.

"Three or four of the fellows got hysterical, shouted and yelled all about the place. We were pretty despondent until we sighted those planes."

Would-Be Robber Found Wanting as Wrestler

A WOULD-BE robber rated second place in an impromptu wrestling match with C. K. Lee, 58, of 387 Silver street Saturday night. The man thrust a gun close to Lee's face after walking into his house.

The man, about 20, left the residence in a greater hurry than he entered, for Lee grabbed the gun and escorted him toward the door.

He obtained nothing.

TWINS BORN TO WOMAN IN PRISON

Case of Mother Held as Child Slayer Arouses Interest in England.

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 9—A mother of four children, who was sentenced to hang for having murdered the fourth baby, has given birth to twins in the hospital of Holloway prison.

Widespread appeals that clemency be granted led John R. Clynes, home secretary, recently to commute the woman's sentence to life imprisonment, but he would not listen to pleas that she be allowed to undergo confinement outside prison so that the child would be born without the stigma of prison birth.

The woman is Mrs. Olive Catherine Wise, who once was married and bore three children legitimately to her husband. They were separated and she bore a fourth child to another man.

He deserted her and she attempted desperately to feed the four hungry mouths. She even chopped wood and hawked it through the streets but finally gave up the struggle, placed the baby in an oven and turned on the gas.

British law takes no cognizance of exceptional circumstances of temporary insanity in murder cases, and she was condemned to hang. A storm of public indignation followed and her sentence was commuted.

It is expected that birth of the twins, which occurred Friday, will further call her case to the public attention.

2 BUCYRUS NEGROES PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Ralls Brothers Arraigned on Charge of Killing Sheriff Walter Davenport.

Special to The Star.

BUCYRUS, Feb. 9—Pleas of not guilty were entered in common pleas court here this afternoon by Blanton and Walter Ralls, accused Negro slayers of the late Sheriff Walter Davenport, when they were arraigned before Judge Clarence U. Abl on charges of first degree murder.

A third brother, Elijah, was killed on Saturday, Jan. 24, when he attempted to escape from the county jail while being questioned.

The court appointed Attorneys Elmer Lutz and Arden Wisman for Blanton Ralls, and Attorney Louis Kistler was named to defend Walter, the alleged trigger man in the slaying.

No dates were set for the trials of the men.

COMMITTEE REPORTS NAVY BILL TO HOUSE

Appropriation Requests for Coming Fiscal Year Decreased 36 Millions.

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—The navy department supply bill, providing $344,342,952 for operation of the country's naval forces during the fiscal year beginning July 1, was reported to the house today by its appropriations committee.

The sum represents a decrease of $36,310,691 as compared with the bill for the current year. It is $3,351,296 less than budget estimates.

The saving is attributed to a reduction in the fleet, which will have but 196 vessels of all classes, a decrease of 16. This will bring about reductions in enlisted personnel both for the navy and marine corps. The navy will carry a complement of 79,700 men as compared with 81,500, while the marine force will be reduced to 17,500, reduction of 500.

The number of officers, however, will not be reduced. Hearings before the appropriations subcommittee revealed that navy officials believe the commissioned membership should be increased by allowing a larger number of congressional appointments to the naval academy.

This belief, it was explained, was occasioned by the changing trend in naval construction, and increased aviation activities. Use of smaller vessels, as provided by the London naval treaty, has changed the ratio of officers and men. It was pointed out, while the aviation service requires a still larger number of officers.

The hearings also revealed that the marine force in Nicaragua now numbers 1,417. During the summer of 1928, the force numbered 5,821.

WAR ON BREAD PRICE ALARMS AUTHORITIES

Police of Chicago District Take Steps To Guard Against Violence.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9—Police of the Humboldt park district said today they were fearful of possible violence in the fight of residents to force the price of bread from ten to six cents a pound loaf.

While quiet prevailed yesterday, more than 500 persons milled through the streets Saturday night, jostling police who attempted to break up their demonstration.

Special details of officers were necessary to quell the crowd which paraded the streets, bearing banners of defiance to the bakers and their injunctions.

Injunctions were obtained Friday by the bakers when they complained to the courts that members of a Mothers' league were picketing their shops ... and preventing customers from entering ... leaves.

The prince had the evident intense satisfaction of shaving his brother, Prince George, and Viscount Ednam, neither of whom ever before had crossed the imaginary line at the earth's girth.

"Policemen" brought Prince George, the first victim, struggling violently to King Neptune, who accused him in loud tones of all kinds of disorderly conduct. Then grinning with delight the Prince of Wales, amid roars of laughter and cheers, helped force his brother into the ducking stool.

Doctors tried to force pills and liquid medicine down the victim's throat and the barber's mate lathered him profusely. Then the Prince of Wales plied his razor and seizing him by the heels toppled him into the water where he ducked him mercilessly.

Prince George emerged smiling and watched Viscount Ednam and 20 other males undergo the same treatment. Women were spared.

KAHN AND BRIDE ON HONEYMOON

Financier Announces Wedding of Son to Former Actress.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—Somewhere on honeymoon lake Roger Wolfe Kahn, wealthy musician aviator, and the former Hannah Williams, daughter of the stage, were celebrating their secret wedding today.

His father, Otto H. Kahn, international financier, announced the couple was married Jan. 28 on the family estate at Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y.

The witnesses were Mrs. Addie W. Kahn, mother of the bridegroom, and Gilbert W. Kahn, the groom's eldest brother. The elder Mr. Kahn was not present due to illness. The ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace John Deans. The couple left on an extended trip to an unannounced destination—possibly to Florida—by airplane.

Mr. Kahn gave his age as 23, and his bride as 20. It was his first marital adventure and her second. Her first marriage, to Charles Kaley, a bandmaster, was annulled on June 30, 1927, in Chicago. She was 16 at the time. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Williams of Taylor, Pa.

The news of the marriage was not disclosed until Billy Rose theatrical manager, announced Miss Williams had left the cast of "Sweet and Low," a current musical production in which she had been giving Broadway a "cheerful little earful" as a starred performer. Otto H. Kahn gave his approval to the union, it was understood, only on the condition that she forsake her stage career.

When each was 16, young Kahn spurned the world of finance to become an orchestra leader and Miss Williams left a coal mining hamlet to put her name in lights. He became the owner of a night club and the leader of 10 orchestras. She became a dancer and singer.

The controller of New York says that city is committed to a program of public improvements in excess of $2,000,000,000. In the face of more or less recent revelations, it would take something of a prophet to predict how much of the expenditure will actually go with the contemplated improvements.

In line with the Wickersham commission's report on prohibition, Canada admits that the bulk of the liquor exported from her territory comes to the United States. It is only fair to state, that the Canadian announcement doesn't altogether take us by surprise. As a people, we have for some time had a suspicion that such might be the case.

Senator Millard Tydings, of Maryland, has offered a resolution calling for investigation of what, if any, influence President Hoover exerted on the Wickersham commission to cause it to make the report on prohibition it did. Really, if the reports of the commissions are to be made the subjects of senatorial inquisitions, it's time to cut out investigating commissions right now!

Prefect Jean Chiappe, of the Paris police, has declared relentless warfare against noise in his fair city, and hereafter the use of all noise-producing instruments, including taxi horns, will be barred between 10 p. m. and 6 a. m., taxi drivers and other motorists being ordered to use their headlights instead of horns to give warnings at crossings. It's going to be something of a hardship on the part of Americans who have visited Paris to recall ever having seen a Parisian taxi equipped with headlights.

Back Again.

The Wickersham commission, despite many vociferous wishes, is back on the job again. Prohibition is not the topic for consideration this time, though it may be assumed that the commissioners had things to say privately about the public's reception of its findings.

The commission's inquiry into prohibition naturally occupied the large place in the public mind, but the original assignment was to make a "searching investigation of the whole structure of our federal system of jurisprudence." Committees on eleven subjects besides prohibition have been appointed. Among them are causes and cost of crime, the police, penal institutions, probation and parole, juvenile delinquency and criminal justice with relation to the foreign born.

When the commission sought a second appropriation of $250,000 to continue its work, it will be remembered, certain senators contended that the money should be granted for the sole purpose of investigating prohibition, but President Hoover brought them into line with a threat to raise the money from private sources unless it were voted without restrictions. It was, that action which makes continuance of the work possible.

The value of the commission's findings in the future remains to be fixed. In fact, the value of its report on prohibition has not been determined yet, due largely to the conditions under which it was issued. Future reports, fortunately, will not arouse such vital and violent interest.

Another Young Plan.

The suggestion offered to the house ways and means committee by Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric company, that legislation be enacted for the making of new loans to needy veterans at an expenditure up to $500,000,000, seemingly has met with popular accord in many sections of the country, judging by newspaper comment.

"There are perhaps 5,000,000 people out of work and nearly 50,000,000 people gainfully employed in the United States," Mr Young told the committee in explaining why he preferred the plan he suggested rather than the cashing of the World war veterans' adjusted compensation certificates at their face value. "That means ten per cent. are unemployed. In addition there are those whose power has been so diminished as to disable them from meeting their needs and there are those in the drought areas who are suffering distress.

"It would seem on any reasonable calculation certainly that not more than one-fourth, or at the most, one-third of the total number of veterans now need cash to relieve actual distress. If that be so, then the government might advance to those who are in need a substantial percentage of the face value of their certificates over and above any loans which may have been made on the certificates under existing law."

Mr. Young figured that such payments would very probably amount to not less than $300,000,000 and not over $500,000,000, and that not over thirty per cent. of the certificate holders would seek loans, which would permit from forty to fifty per cent. increases in the loans to veterans who might seek cash. He urged that, in setting the interest rate "the United States government ought to be very generous—perhaps three per cent, perhaps three and a half."

Apparently, the General Electric chairman impressed the members of the committee much as he has impressed editorial America. He showed that he had given deep consideration to the matter involved, looking at it with sympathetic interest for both those who would have to raise any sum expended under his plan and those who would receive benefit from it. "You are the second witness before this committee," one of its members told him, "to show a tinge of human sympathy. I congratulate you."

It may prove interesting to state that the other witness referred to was President Rome C. Stephenson, of the American Bankers' association, who told the committee that one of two suggested plans for advancing cash on certificates could be executed "without serious injury to business."

The federal department of justice will be arrayed against the senate in the court trial of the right of George Otis Smith to serve as chairman of the power commission, according to a Washington dispatch. Naturally. It's the duty of the department of justice to protect any branch of the government against unwarranted assault upon it by another branch, despite the senate's attitude that it is supreme.

Able Secretary Stimson.

Secretary of State Stimson adds another stone to the solid, permanent structure of the state department in his masterful address on "The United States and the Other American Republics," delivered before the Council on Foreign Relations, Friday night. What he had to say on that occasion will be remembered many years from now and quoted as the views of an able secretary of state.

Mr. Stimson's remarks are intended as a reply to criticism of the state department's policies concerning Latin-American republics, seven of which have been disturbed by revolutions since March, 1929. He realizes that criticism has been widespread during this trying period, but believes that a "calm" historical perspective will refute that criticism and will demonstrate that "the international practice of this government in the Western hemisphere has been asserted with a much readier recognition of the legal rights of all the countries with which we have been in contact than has been the prevalent practice in any other part of the world."

This he does eminently well, under three general topics. First, he gives the necessary historical perspective, showing that this nation's interest in Latin-America must be vital for the very sufficient reason of self-preservation; that the Monroe doctrine was a declaration of the United States against Europe—not against Latin America, and that in taking the position it has the United States always has adhered closely to the basic conception of international law, namely, the equal rights of each nation in the family of nations.

Under "Recognition," his second topic, Secretary Stimson shows that, with the exception of President Wilson's policy toward Mexico, in 1913, entrance upon diplomatic intercourses with foreign nations always has depended upon control of the administrative machinery of the state, the general acquiescence of its people, and the ability and willingness of their government to discharge international and conventional obligations. President Wilson, who refused to recognize the government of Mexico under conditions which the state department's established policy would hold sufficient, made a serious error in Mr. Stimson's opinion, but since that time this nation's relation with Latin-American nations have been developed to a satisfactory state, he believes.

The last topic, "Traffic in Arms," has to do with American policy concerning sales of arms and munitions to Mexico in 1929, and Brazil in 1930. In both cases, America placed an embargo on arms to the revolutionists, though supplying them freely to the government. The country's duty is clearly to the established government in every case, according to approved practice the world over, Secretary Stimson points out. In this, as in the other matters discussed, he points the way clearly—and convincingly.

Speaking of the progress made toward insuring peace among the Latin-American countries, Secretary Stimson says: "It is my hope that the decisions of the state department during the past two years will be found to have assisted in this beneficient progress." The record of the department in the past two years is the best response to Mr Stimson's hope. The public has been assured on many occasions that the department is in able hands.

THEY NEVER SPEAK AS THEY PASS BY.

Editorial Opinion.

CONGRESS AND BUSINESS.

Business at present needs every possible encouragement and assistance. Proposals for remedy are many and various; the trouble is the diversity of doctors. Particularly, the quack of politics is busy. The administration is harassed and embarrassed. The larger welfare, seemingly, is forgotten.

Commerce, industry, business are halted in indecision. There now is no reason why this situation should exist. There is plenty of money. The nation's wealth and natural resources are beyond calculation. The spirit of self-help is not dead. The man-power of the country is ready and willing to work, from banker to billposter.

But with business recovering slowly, with jobless men and women seeking work, ravishment of the public treasury is proclaimed, prescribed and preached by opportunist legislators without regard to lessons of the past, the warnings of the present and the justified predictions of disaster for the future if vital principles of government and economics are subordinated to the demands of a dubious emotionalism.

President Hoover is fighting to keep the national treasury solvent and the government finances sound. Senate stupidity seems bent upon forcing a treasury deficiency, which means higher taxes. This is inept opportunism. If the senate opposition to the President is successful it will mean continuation of depression and distress.

It is the business of the senate to abjure its asserted omniscience and move to a reasonable adjustment of the problems now so vital to the whole people, to cease an attack on public funds which continuously frightens manufacturers and the business of the country, and which, for all the ballyhoo of demagogic impulse and motive, would ultimately hurt those they pretend to be willing and anxious to serve.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE PRESTIGE OF THE HOUSE.

In the speeches of Representatives Tilson, Treadway and Cramton, among others, one finds further reasons for admiring the house at the expense of the senate. Having turned its back so resolutely on the food dole clamor, the house gains increased prestige by saying a few plain truths about the reckless demagogues who seem to be dominating the upper branch.

The house stands high in popular estimation, not only in comparison with the senate and not only because it is right on this particular matter. Its claim to general esteem is founded on the even more solid fact that it comes so much nearer to representing the people than does the upper chamber.

The right thing and the popular thing coincide far more often than "liberal" cynics will admit. A perfect case in point can be seen in the fight over the food dole. In utter violation of the spirit which animated the founders of the senate, election to this body and nomination for it was made so "direct" that demagogues are favored at the expense of men of substance and character. A body of able men detached from popular control is a good thing; a body of demagogues in a relatively impregnable position is an intolerable nuisance.

There is sometimes a loud outcry when politicians confine themselves merely to doing the popular thing. There is sometimes complaint when able politicians take a wise course which is unpalpatable to the mob. The present senate, however, presents the curious spectacle of a body which is bent on a course which is neither popular nor wise. This the President has shown in his recent sane and objective statement. It has been also made plain by the action of those members of the house who bared their teeth at the rampaging senators. These members have won for themselves and for the body to which they belong much well-deserved esteem. May their conduct teach the food-dole senators their long-delayed lesson.—New York Herald Tribune.

A Good Lung Action Essential.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Do you practice breathing deeply, or are you habitually given to shallow breathing? There are too many people in this world who do not know how to breathe.

Good lung action is essential to health. To breathe properly is a guarantee of good health.

Of course you know breathing is automatic. It goes on regularly, day and night, just like the ticking of a clock.

The blood circulates through the lungs and around the body three times about a minute. As it passes through the right side of the heart into the lungs it is dark purple in color. It is saturated with waste products gathered up by the blood in its circuit around the body. As you exhale, or breathe out, these products escape in watery vapor.

When the lungs inhale, or take in air, the wonderful chemical laboratory of the body separates the life-giving oxygen from the air. This oxygen is absorbed through the thin walls of the tiny blood-vessels of the lungs. In this way it gets into the general circulation of the blood. At once, there is a change in the blood. It turns from purple color to bright red. It goes from the lungs to the heart, clean and pure as the air breathed.

The purer the blood becomes by flowing through the lungs, the more vitality will a person have. For this reason everyone needs vigorous exercise to increase the lung capacity.

Many cases of lung disease and nose and throat troubles might be averted if more persons would learn the habit of deep breathing. A great deal can be done to improve the health by setting aside a few minutes every day to the practice of slow and deep breathing.

One of the best exercises in the world is walking. Everybody who is able-bodied can take a vigorous walk every day. This is the time to practice deep breathing.

If you live in the city, get out into the parks to walk when you can. Even at best, city air is full of dust and smoke, so it is important as often as possible, to get into the open spaces, out into the country. This is good, both for a change in scene and for one's health. Breathe the pure air of the hilltops or the invigorating sea air as often as you can.

Civilization is such that multitudes of people are herded together in close proximity. That is all the more reason why every room, night and day, should be well ventilated. Let in the fresh air. There is an inexhaustible reservoir of air for all to breathe. It is only by man's ignorance of how he is made and how he should live, or by utter neglect, that he keeps from living as near as possible to Nature, as Nature intended he should.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

ANXIOUS. Q—What can be done for snake bite? Is there some simple treatment which can be used, at least until medical aid may be had?

A—Bites of native snakes are seldom, if ever, fatal, but it is always wise to treat the bite as soon as possible. The poison must be eradicated before it has a chance to get into the general blood supply. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

• • •

EDNA. Q—Is there more than one kind of hives? I do not have welts, but the skin seems red, and is easily irritated when scratched.

A—Yes. There are several forms. Nettlerash is one form, and "giant hives" is another. In many cases the trouble may be traced to faulty diet. It often happens that the digestive system is upset.

• • •

PERE Q—What can be done for hot, perspiring feet; also blisters on the toes? My shoes feel comfortable, although I am on my feet a good part of the day.

2—What would you advise for a child whose appetite has become jaded? He is eight years old, and seems well and normal in all other respects.

3—What causes sour stomach in a four-months-old infant?

A—These are more or less common symptoms at this time of the year. Changing the shoes and socks as frequently as possible will bring about increased comfort. Foot baths should prove soothing under the circumstances.

2—The trouble may be due to intestinal worms, or it is possible that the child is not getting enough variety in diet. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

3—A condition of this kind is indicative of some fault in the diet—the milk may be too rich, and, therefore, indigestible, causing an acid condition.—Copyright, 1931, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Dual Character of Electrons.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

The findings of science within recent years have been so complicated and often mutually contradictory that they have inevitably led to a discussion as to the limitations of human thought. It is perhaps possible that our knowledge of nature will always remain partial and imperfect? Are certain things comprehensible, and other things incomprehensible? Do certain problems transcend the powers of the human mind and imagination? Is it not probable that as science widens and deepens, humanity will be compelled to attain new powers of comprehension and receptivity?

One of these singular impasses, occasionally encountered in the history of science, is puzzling the physicists of today. There has been discovered a puzzling quality of apparently irreconcilable wave and corpuscular properties which characterizes electrons. To the layman, it is incomprehensible that a scientist could bring himself to look upon electrons as corpuscles and also as waves. What is the ground for this singular and puzzling phenomenon, which is apparently full of mutual contradictions?

Go back some thirty years ago, and we were confronted with many new and beautiful phenomena observed in highly-exhausted electrical discharge tubes.

Beams of radiation from the cathodes of various tubes—Geissler, Crookes, Roentgen ray, and other tubes—are deflected in electric and magnetic fields; and it was shown by J. J. Thomson and by Weichert that this radiation deflection takes place just as if the radiation were a stream of swiftly moving, negatively charged particles. This, and other discoveries pointing in the same direction, indicated the existence of an ultimate unit of electric charge, to which was given the name "electron."

Many experiments, of both a direct and indirect character, confirmed the view that electrons were a universal constituent of matter. As Davisson says, they could be vaporized from matter by heating; they streamed forth under the solicitation of light and x-rays; they were ejected spontaneously by radio-active materials. Measurements were made of their charge, most precisely in the famous oil drop experiments of Milliken. The mass of the electron was determined with great accuracy. An ocular demonstration of the corpuscular nature of electrons was arrived at by C. T. R. Wilson, who actually photographed the tracks pursued by individual electrons in traversing a gas. Electrons were also shown to be discrete particles of electricity by observing the fluctuations in the current flowing from a heated filament. In character and magnitude they agree with the random emission of charges of the known magnitude of electrons.

Every conceivable experiment seemed to point conclusively to the conception that electronic radiations were of a corpuscular nature. This gave rise to an elaborate theory of the optical and electrical properties of matter. The famous Bohr theory of the atom rests squarely upon this same assumption.

Finally a new set of discoveries gave rise to a different conception of radiation. Light has been observed to have both corpuscular and undulant characteristics.

The quantum theory gave rise to a curious correlation of frequency and energy. Moreover, the theory of relativity gave rise to a certain correlation of mass and energy. The French scientists, Louis de Broglie, came to the conclusion that the conception of the electron as a particle might in certain circumstances be found inadequate.

This new notion has already proved extremely fruitful. For the present the planetary system of electrons conceived by Bohr has been displaced by the new system of de Broglie. The French scientist replaces Bohr's system by a medium continuous, though inhomogeneous, capable of natural vibrations.

A considerable number of successful experiments have been made confirming de Broglie's conception. For example, it has been demonstrated that electrons are regularly or "specularly" reflected from the surface of a crystal. Most of the stream of electrons follow the mirror law: the angle of incidence is equal to the angle of reflection. There is a strong and well-defined beam of regularly reflected electrons. Regular reflection is explained with complete satisfactoriness by regarding the incident beam, not as a stream of particles, but as a beam of waves. Experiments on the diffraction of electrons by an aggregate of small crystals of silver and the diffraction of mica also lead to the conclusion that electrons should be regarded as waves.

The scientist now regards electrons as both particles and waves. He violates the ancient law that you can't have it both ways.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

A Shaker Colony on the Scioto.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

A Shaker community was once projected to be established on the Darby plains in Union township, Union county, and along the stretches of the Scioto north to Columbus, but was prevented by two things—the prevalence of ague and the fact that "squatter" operations in the Virginia military land there had made its purchase rather risky business. The thrifty Shakers had no intention of putting their money into lands only to find perhaps that they had not secured a good title.

The organization of the New Light church in Vermont in the early years of the last century sent a colony of that organization from New England to settle on the Darby plains, and very soon exchanges of visits began to be made between it and the Shaker settlement at Union village, Ohio. The leaders of Union village wanted the New Light people to organize into a Shaker community.

On the occasions of their visits to the Plains settlement, the Union village leaders would do missionary work down along the river and once interested some of the settlers around Dublin. Records show that John Sells of that place became interested in the movement, but did not join. A leader in the Darby Plains colony was a minister, named Douglas Farnum, and his withdrawal from it may have made the others willing to change into a Shaker community.

The plan had been carried to the point of selecting the place where the nucleus of the community should be established. The extensive farm of Samuel Rice was to be the site. It was at this time, however, that the two objections to the locality mentioned began to affect the leaders of the movement and the project was given up, and the proposed community transferred to Whitewater, where most of those who contemplated joining at Darby Plains became members.

Outfitting dogs becomes one of the phenomenal industries. A few years ago only larger department stores kept collars, harness and blankets for dogs. Now all department stores have dog departments and there are a score of special dog shops. In these one finds everything from rubber overshoes to motor goggles. Blankets are made to order, some trimmed with touches of ermine at $150 a blanket. There are dog kits in pin seal cases containing everything a dog needs on a journey from silver comb to unsinkable rubber balls. These traveling outfits range from $50 to $125. And if you feel resentment over such Louis XIV extravagances, blame the owner not the dog. The dog is happier playing with an old shoe or gnawing on a ten day buried bone.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Feb. 9 — Senator Morrow, of New Jersey, is rapidly convincing Washington, especially those observers on Capitol hill, that he is really a very modest and retiring sort of individual.

On the day he first entered the senate newspapermen swarmed around him only to be met with the quiet statement that he would listen to whatever they had to say, but he would say nothing. And he didn't.

As yet he has had nothing to say on the floor. His utterances there have been confined to an answering "here" on roll calls and either "yea" or "nay" on a vote. He sits at his desk when in the senate chamber, seeming a bit bewildered, now and then engaging a senator near him in a conversation.

And now it has gone a step further.

The biography which he supplied the Congressional directory—that bible of official Washington—will convince even the most confirmed skeptic that Morrow really likes to keep himself in the background.

• • •

His is the shortest of any biography submitted by the new crop of senators which came in for the short session.

He is content to make only seven statements about his past:

No. 1 is that he is a Republican. 2—He was born in Huntington, West Virginia, in 1876. 3—In 1895 he got an A. B. from Amherst. 4—In 1899 he got an LL.B. from Columbia. 5—He married Elizabeth Reeve Cutter of Cleveland in 1903. 6—He lives in Englewood, New Jersey. 7—He was elected to the United States senate in 1930 to fill the unexpired term of Walter E. Edge and to the full term of six years, ending March 3, 1937.

That's all. There's no mention of the fact that he was formerly American ambassador to Mexico. He passes over the fact that he was a delegate to the London naval arms conference.

And one wishing to verify that he is the father-in-law of the famous Lindy must look elsewhere.

• • •

Of the biographies submitted by the senators who came in with the short session last December, that of James John Davis is the longest. The senator from Pennsylvania takes up more than four inches of space in the directory.

Next to Senator Blease, of South Carolina, whose biography requires more than four and one-half inches, comes that of Senator Davis.

"Puddler Jim" has chronicled there every milestone in his career to date.

It starts with his birth in Tredegar, South Wales, in 1873. He mentions that he was once a puddler in the iron and steel mills of Pennsylvania. His many fraternal associations are named, as well as "many other fraternal orders" in which he holds membership.

His cabinet days are recalled, and he concludes with that in which he takes great pride—"resigned as secretary of labor and on the same day took the oath of office as senator."

Made Perfectly Plain.

BELIEVE THEFT RING BROKEN

Hardin County Sheriff Arrests Three; Held to Grand Jury by Mayor.

Special to The Star.

KENTON, Feb. 9. Hardin county officials today believe they have broken a ring of chicken thieves that has been operating in Hardin and neighboring counties for more than two months.

A trio of Kenton men, arrested, have confessed to stealing more than 150 chickens from five farms near Kenton, Sheriff Ansley said today.

Jake Shultz, 27, accused by the other two members of the gang as being the leader, William "Biddy" Anderson, 62, and Bert Stephey, 62, each pleaded guilty to burglary and larceny charges preferred by Deputy Sheriff Wilbur Mitchell and was bound to the grand jury under $1000 bond. They were remanded to county jail. The three were arraigned before Mayor George Lingrel.

Statements now held by county officials show that the three men allegedly were implicated in the theft of five chickens from Irene Wagner, east of Kenton; 35 chickens from Dennis Wetherill, east of Kenton; 45 from Hulda Fewell, Jackson township; 35 from Frank Dickson of south of Kenton; Mrs. Frank Wilson of Blanchard township, 25; Wilson Lyons, Pleasant township, 25 chickens; and 40 from A. C. Purdy, north of Kenton.

BUCYRUS GIRL, MAN MARRIED IN CHURCH

Single Ring Service Read in Lovely Pre-Lenten Wedding.

Special to The Star.

BUCYRUS, Feb. 9—A lovely pre-lenten marraige was solemnized Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock when Miss Helen Bertha Niederheiser, daughter of F. L. Niederheiser, became the bride of Franklin Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roberts.

Rev. J. D. Green, pastor of First Methodist Episcopal church, read the single ring service in the presence of the immediate families and a few friends.

The couple took their places before an improved altar at the fire place which was banked with palms and ferns, while Miss Gladys Trout played Lohengrin's wedding march. The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father.

Miss Anna Louise Niederheiser, sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid. Floyd Heinlen, cousin of the groom, was the best man.

Miss Evelyn Schieber sang a prelude of wedding music. Following the ceremony Miss Trout played Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

An informal reception was held at the home following the ceremony after which the couple left on a wedding trip. They will return to Bucyrus for a short stay and then leave for Montana where they expect to locate.

PROSECUTOR TO TEST DECISION

Will Appeal Crestline Vote Fraud Ruling Returned by Appellate Court.

Special to The Star.

BUCYRUS, Feb. 9. That he will carry the case to the supreme court was indicated today by Prosecutor J. D. Sears, referring to the decision of the court of appeals in the vote fraud case at Crestline in the August primaries of 1929 by which Mrs. Edna Nelson of Crestline has been freed.

Sears stated that he would carry the case up "to determine whether it is a law that one who is accused of crime should not be granted the privilege of appearing before the grand jury."

Mrs. Nelson with her sister Mrs. Eleanor Blake, deceased, were freed by the court of appeals when they upheld the contention of their attorney, Charles F. Schaber, that the sisters were not liable to prosecution because they had testified before the grand jury.

The sisters were convicted of having double marked 60 ballots in the mayoralty race between Lenard F. Waldbauer and Henry Bormuth.

BECOMES JUDGE

Ahl Takes Over Bench; Wright Retires After 12 Years.

BUCYRUS, Feb. 9 — Common Pleas Judge J. Walter Wright today turned over the court bench to Judge-elect Clarence U. Ahl after serving 12 years as judge of the common pleas court.

Judge Ahl was inaugurated into office this morning. One of his first duties is expected to be the arraignment of Blanton and Walter Ralls, negroes, against whom first degree murder charges will be placed as a result of the fatal shooting of Sheriff George Davenport Jan. 23.

Judge Wright will return to private practice and will occupy the office formerly occupied by Judge Ahl.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Soap Causes Irritation When Using Deodorant Expert Says

BY JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON

A beauty secret which for some unexplainable reason has long remained a secret, is how to avoid the irritation which usually follows the use of preparations designed to stop excessive perspiration. And the secret is so simple that it is surprising that it has not been broadcast to the world of beauty-minded women. It seems that the thing NOT to do is wash the parts of the body, on which the preparation is to be used, with soap and water. It is the soap, apparently, which tends to cause the irritation, using these preparations is to re-

The best plan to follow when move the excess hair, then, twenty-four hours later pat on the perspiration deterrent with a bit of cotton. Before using the preparation, however bathe the parts to be treated with clear water. Very warm, or hot water may be used, as it opens the pores slightly, so that the preparations really penetrates more quickly and thoroughly increasing the value of its action.

When the preparation has dried, rinse the skin with clear, cold water to remove that which remains on the surface. Thus the possibility of marring your frocks is eliminated.

Most of us undoubtedly have resorted to soap and water cleansing immediately before applying such preparations, because of a subconscious desire for absolute cleanliness. This cleanliness is essential, of course, but should be indulged in at least an hour before the preparation is used and the skin should be thoroughly rinsed at that time to remove any trace of the alkali deposit soaps leave on the skin.

Then, too, rubbing frequently produces irritation when such preparations are used. When rinsing the skin, just before using the perspiration deterrent, pat the water on and pat the skin dry. After absorbing most of the water is sufficient time elapse for the skin to finish drying naturally.

Always apply the preparation to the parts by saturating a ball of cotton with the liquid and then pat this lightly to the skin. Try to have the arms extended from the body until the preparation has dried, thus avoiding all friction, which is caused by moving the arms freely.

TO BREAK UP A COLD IN A JIFFY

Feel Like a New Person In Just a Little While

People have found out that new-fangled ideas and notions don't break up colds. So millions have turned back to first principles and use what they know breaks one up in a jiffy. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to trifle with.

The thing to do is to get Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon you'll start to feel like a new person. Things will loosen up, your head will clear; aching go—you'll be back on the job with a wallop.

Get Hill's now. It is a scientific formula made to do one thing well: to knock a cold—not to cure a thousand ailments. Get your money back if it doesn't work with twice the speed of anything else you've ever tried.

THE CRIME IN THE DUTCH GARDEN

BY HERBERT ADAMS

(Copyright, 1930, J. B. Lippincott Co.)

CHAPTER II

One-Armed Mystery

J ASWELL, with Donald ... arrived early for ... services next morning ... little village church. ... him, he was not ... the absence of Evelyn ... usually present on ... today shrinking from ... curious. The house- ... represented by Ben Acres ... and Major Gresham ... the ushers ... erton was there alone ... caught a glimpse of ... in with her mother, ... Winford. All listened ... evidently sincere ... the deceased by the ... Horne, who did not ... suspicions against his ... Joe Allen. ... brief services, Mrs ... greeted Nancy, Donald ... and suggested that Jimmie play golf with Audrey that afternoon as her son could not fill his engagement. Audrey agreed that they would meet again at 2:30 and play partners against the Wades.

Audrey proved to be a wonderful golfer. Nancy kept the ball out of trouble and Donald was at top form; yet even with the game's interest, it was impossible to forget the topic of the hour. During a wait on a tee Nancy turned suddenly to Jimmie and said: "Do you believe Joe Allen did it?"

"Fifty-fifty," he replied. "Joe Allen is simple and the teasing of his friends might have made him reckless. Then he might ride off, planning to hide himself. But the suggested wait in the garden makes me doubtful. He would have had time to cool down. If he is a very low type, he might have done it."

"But he isn't," Audrey put in. "There's not much wrong in him."

For a few moments the subject was dropped as play proceeded. But Jimmie seemed curious.

"I suppose Bill Netherton is an old friend of yours?" he asked.

She gave him a quick glance. "Yes. He is."

Bill had always meant to specialize, she said, but his father had died, leaving debts to pay off, and Bill had to get through quickly and come home. A good deal that Audrey did not say was implied. Bill's disappointment, for instance.

"Is Bill Netherton particularly friendly with Marjorie Blake?"

"With Marjorie?" There was obvious surprise in her tone. "I do not think so. Why do you ask?"

"I only wondered," he evaded.

The subject was dropped as they watched a one-armed golfer take an iron and with his left hand send the ball down the fairway.

Audrey answered Jimmie's question. "He's Captain Stirling. Lost his hand in the war—bombing. He's coming over here to speak to us."

"Captain Stirling" Jimmie repeated. "You rarely see a one-armed golfer. Can he drive a car?"

"Rather. Not much he can't do."

Stirling a big, dark fellow with a close-clipped black moustache and square, high shoulders went over to Nancy, telling her that Evelyn Blake had asked her Donald and Jimmie to come over for a quiet time that evening. It was agreed that the three would go over.

Jimmie and Audrey should have won the game, which ended all square. She played well, but Jimmie's interest in meeting Captain Stirling had put him off his game. Had the one-armed man played any part in the tragedy? Obviously he was friendly to the sisters. Was it his car that the chauffeur had seen against the fence? The fact that Dr. Netherton had seen him driving in that direction supported the possibility. That a powerful one-armed man could have pushed over the satyr was obvious, but to conclude that from the mere presence of his car appeared worse than accusing Joe Allen because of his disappearance.

Jimmie and the Wades reached the Querdling place after dinner. Duckworth and Evelyn seemed content together, Marjorie had a book in her hand but was not reading, while Stirling was trying to make conversation. They all brightened up when the newcomers arrived.

Evelyn's remark to Jimmie gave a lead in the direction of their thoughts. "We can't believe what they are saying about Joe Allen. If he's innocent, when do you think the detectives from Scotland Yard will come?"

"Probably not at all," he replied, adding that Scotland Yard helps in provincial cases only when asked. "The local police are very efficient."

"Especially with the aid of a gifted amateur," Stirling's tone was not entirely free from sarcasm, but Jimmie took it good-humoredly.

"Wrong again," he replied. "The amateur is seldom of much use in comparison with the trained policeman."

"Well then I hope that Richmond will soon end the suspense," observed Duckworth.

"But," said Stirling, facing Jimmie, "whoever is guilty, how is it to be brought to them, if they deny it and there are no eye-witnesses?"

"All you can do is to get a combination of circumstances and eliminate reasonable doubt. Take Joe Allen. We'll check up on every detail of his story and when we find him question him closely. His motorcycle must have been seen or heard by many along the way. If his story breaks down, he may condemn himself."

"Yesterday Richmond told me that someone saw my car or one like it standing empty outside here. Must I prove an alibi because of that?" queried Stirling coolly.

There was silence as he spoke, broken only by a suppressed gasp from Marjorie sitting behind Jimmie.

"I understand," Jimmie said "that Dr. Netherton told Richmond he had seen you driving in this direction."

"If I told him I was just takin a run in the evening, as one does, should I have to get someone to confirm my story?"

Friends Never Knew Her Hair Was Gray

Stay young, my friends. Above all, why let your hair get gray, when there's a simple way to lose gray hair overnight and in a few days have beautiful dark hair. It's a brew of common sage tea properly blended with sulphur. An old recipe women used to steep on the back of the stove. Now improved and sold by all druggists for 75c a bottle. Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur. Use it following directions and very soon it will restore your hair to its original coloring so evenly, so naturally nobody'll ever know.—Adv.

LOS ANGELES—They're doing things on high at Adolfo de La Huerta's palace. The former leader of revolts in Mexico is a vocal teacher now. After two girl pupils amazed critics by singing high C, three octaves above middle C, and then went up a note to D, a tenor soared still farther to F.

• • •

OKLAHOMA CITY—Alfalfa Bill Murray is pretty good with a harmonica. He proved it when high school students called at the capitol with instruments. He was sorry they had no accordion.

• • •

NEW YORK—Jack Von Rep-pert Bismarck is a German girl, an artist, whose first name is pronounced "Jake" by her husband, grand nephew of the "Iron Chancellor." She has come from Germany to paint a portrait of Lillian Gish, ordered by George Jean Nathan. Her maiden name was Lis Meyer. Her husband met her at a costume ball when she was wearing a sailor suit, hence the Jack.

• • •

PARIS—Jean Aubert, actress, who is involved in divorce proceedings with Nelson Morris of Chicago, has about 500,000 francs in bank which she can spend as she likes. Morris has failed in litigation to prevent her using it. The money is half what he deposited for her in happier days.

• • •

LINDEN, N. J.—Andrew Koches is convinced that a savings bank is a better place for money than a washtub. He drew out $3,600 and put it in the tub in his room. It's gone. He admitted to the police he had told the secret to several persons.

FALSE TEETH

Can Not Embarrass

Most wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their teeth dropped or slipped at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little Fastteeth on your plates. Make false teeth stay in place and feel comfortable. Sweetens breath. Get Fastteeth at Henney & Cooper's or any other good drug store.—Adv.

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

YESTERDAY was Sunday, and lots of ice on the ground, and it was smooth because it had got rained on and froze. When I had got up and let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth I got into my short britches and made a light and looked at my bed and the sheet wasn't green any more, so I knowed that my mother must of found the sheet that was, and she didn't say anything about it, and that's what a fella gets for being nice to his mother and calling her beautiful and helping her wash the dishes. She told me that whatever I had done would be all right with her if she was my ant nothing I done would be all right with her.

When I had let Jubilee down and had went down to get the cows milked as fast as I could, because it is wicked to work on Sunday and a fella ought to get it done quick so he wouldn't be wicked for long. Then the bunch was there, and when I had got my face fed and got outside to see what the bunch was going to do till it was time for Sunday school, we got to playing tag, and the Lost Bag of Tripe was it, and when he just missed touching me he flang his cap at me and I scooped it up and flang it up in the tree in the front of our house, and it caught on a branch just as I heard my ant hollering at me not to do that. And when I looked around she was standing in the door. She seen everything.

We all stood and looked to see what she was going to do, and she went around to the side of the house and got the clothes pole out from under the line and brung it out and stood under the tree, but she couldn't quite reach the hat with the pole, so she made a big and high swipe at it and jumped up into the air at the same time, and her pole hit in the crotch of the limb and threwed her off her balance so that when she hit the ice she was all sprodded out and couldn't pull herself together so she came down on her chinnick so hard that she said, "Whoops!" Then she glared at us, but none of us were laughing, and Freckle and Yo[illegible] her to get up and [illegible] but when they [illegible] the edge Freckle [illegible] and when Jimmy [illegible] Freckle [illegible] of the eaves [illegible] and Freckle [illegible] and [illegible]

STOP BOBBY'S COUGH

Before it Weakens Him to the Danger Point!

Never take a child's cough lightly. You can't tell where it will end. Many a serious sickness has started with "just a cough." For a cough is not only distressing, but weakening as well. At the first sign of a cough or chest soreness in old or young, always gives good dependable old "Piso's for Coughs."

Piso's does the five things necessary to stop a cough and repair the damage done. It checks the cough spasm, loosens the mucus, opens the air passages, soothes the inflamed tissues, and at the same time has a tonic value that tends to build up what the cough tears down. Only Piso's supplies these five vital effects and it contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach. Safe to give, even to babies. All druggists sell Piso's in 35c and 60c sizes. Be sure you ask for "Piso's for Coughs."—Adv.

News of a Thwarted Attempt To Rob the Town Bank

I HAVE no recollection of anything between the shutting of the telephone and [illegible] rushing to the branch [illegible] which we have in [illegible] I must have sprung out of bed, thrust my feet into my bedroom slippers, and enfolded my pajama clad body in the [illegible] ing coat belonging to the [illegible] for when I became conscious of my surroundings I realized that I was thus clad. But the terror engendered by the two separate items of desperate men white and [illegible] who, for some unknown reason were demanding Mother's locket box with its secret compartment containing her fortune, had [illegible] fleeted to dominate my [illegible] ous mind to the exclusion of every thing else.

Two other [illegible] voices spoke a "Hello" into the mouthpiece as I quavered mine. My father's voice from the branch telephone in his room, and Dicky's from the one in the hall below were as crisp and insistent as mine was faltering. It had been agreed before we went to bed that Harry and Dicky were to share the watch downstairs during the night and that my father and Jim would relieve them shortly after daylight.

"This is Corwin," came the voice of the bank president, who in this country village takes the full brunt of the bank's cares and activities. "They came all right, parked down below the bank and then sneaked around toward the rear. But we were ready for 'em. They're wary birds, though, got hep before we had a chance to get our hands on them, and tumbled back into their car, which they had kept running, and beat it toward North Haven. The boys are after them, though, and they can't get away. But I'm afraid there'll be a bad shooting scrape before they're landed. I'm sorry I can't be over there, but I have to stick in this building until the excitement's over. I suppose you want me to relay you all the news as soon as I get it."

The Flight

"If you please," my father said, and with a "So long" Mr. Corwin rang off. As I hung up my receiver I was conscious that Lillian and Katherine were framed in their doorways, their faces tense questioning. Quickly I repeated what the bank president had said, speaking in a low voice, and with anxious glances toward my mother-in-law's door. But fortunately for her own peace of mind and ours Mother Graham is getting slightly deaf with the passing years and no longer hears the drop of every pin as she used to do. As for Mary and Marion, it would take more than the ring of a telephone to rouse them once they have settled into the deep slumber of perfect health, which is theirs.

"Dead to the world all three, as well as the small boys praise be," Katherine said. "I suppose we'd better get into some clothes. There won't be any sleep in the house until we have definite news of those fellows. Of course my job is to stay up here with the children, but you both all want to go downstairs, I know."

"Right you are, Katrina," Lillian said. "Hustle into something prontο, Madge. I'll be with you in a jiff."

We made our way downstairs, where we found Dicky and Harry and my father on the veranda.

At our entry my father drew out seats for us, even as he shook his head at us in reproof.

"You should not have arisen," he said. "There is no need."

"Do you think we could have stayed in bed with anything like this going on?" Lilian demanded. "What do you think we're made of?"

"Nerves and nerve," Dicky answered for him.

Under the flippancy there was the same tension which had been in my father's voice. Harry Underwood said nothing.

I wish I knew why those fellows [illegible] to North Haven tonight, instead of taking to the open road," my father said suddenly.

Probably they had no other choice," Dicky suggested. "Their whole attack upon the bank was [illegible] upon the surprise of the thing. They no doubt planned to rush down one of those side streets which would bring them down on the Easthampton turnpike. Then they could have doubled and gotten back to the main road."

"That was the scheme which Corwin and I planned to thwart," my father said. "There were men in cars placed on each of those streets far enough back so the pursuers could not see them. The car was too large to turn quickly, so they could not have come back to Main Street if they had entered one of the smaller ones. But Corwin says they beat it toward North Haven. Now why?"
